LATE STOCK
RALLY, CLOSE
IS STRONG

Alternate Periods of Weakness and Strength Characterize Trade, Reflecting Nervousness.

MONEY RATE AGAIN
UP TO 12 PER CENT

Pools Run Many Shares Vigorously Upward in the Late Dealings Despite the Credit Situation.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 7.—The stock market closed with an outburst of strength today after a series of confusing price movements. The late rally took place in the face of the marking up of all money from 10 to 12 per cent and reports that Paul Warburg, International Banker, would issue a bullish statement of the credit outlook after the close of the market. Radio (old stock) rallied from a low of $50 3/4 to 407 and the new stock closed 7 1/2 points higher at $14.

Wright Aeronautical showed a gain of five points and gained one to three points were recorded by U. S. Steel common, Montgomery Ward, National Cash Register, Bethlehem Steel, Westinghouse Electric and other industrial favorites.

The average of 50 industrial shares closed 1.9 points higher, 20 railroads 3.5 of a point and 20 utilities 3 points.

Long tip $140,000,000.

Loans to brokers and dealers held by the New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending March 6 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board today as $5,647,000,000, representing an increase of $140,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

There were increases in all three classes, loans for own account gaining $27,000,000, for account of out-of-town banks $14,000,000 and for account of others $99,000,000.

While the 4 1/2 per cent rate on the new United States Treasury financing was about in line with expectations, it served to accentuate the present credit stringency, and revived fears of an early increase in Federal Reserve discount rates. While preparing for the heavy mid-month tax dividend and interest payments, the banks are showing a reluctance to increase their borrowings at the Federal Reserve Bank.

News Reports Favorable.
Trade and business news continues favorable. Directors of the National Dairy Products Corporation declared a stock dividend of 100 per cent, and valuable stock subscription rights were voted to the stockholders of American Steel Foundries. Several excellent earnings reports made their appearance during the day. Union Carbide showing a gain of more than $5,000,000 in net last year over the year before.

Adams Express Rallies.
Adams Express, which broke 45 points yesterday, rallied 25 in today's trading. Radio (old) rallied 20 points to 350, slipped back to 275, rebounded to 407. Radio (new) rallied more than 7 points and Colorado Fuel, Western Union, United Fruit, Vanadium, American Bosch Magneto, Crosley Radio and National Dairy Products sold 3 to 3 1/2 points higher at one time closing 3 to 7 1/2 points net higher.

Death of Theodore F. Merz.
The death of Theodore F. Merz, president of the Johns Manville Co., was followed by heavy selling of that stock, which broke 1 1/2 points in the early trading, closing at 4 3/4 points net lower.

Johns Manville fell back 2 1/2 points to 191, or more than 50 points below the year's high, and Electric Auto Lite dropped 1 point. New Haven and Greene Canvases each opened a point higher, and U. S. Steel common, Union Carbide and American Smelting improved fractionally.

The market quickly turned reactionary when declines were shown in a few high-priced specialties. The rise in call money from 8 to 12 per cent yesterday seemed to serve notice on speculators that the Federal Reserve Board, through the banks, was carrying out its intention of forcing a reduction in borrowing in order to assure a sufficient supply of funds for spring commercial and agricultural demands. Traditionally, March has been a period of easy money rates, but yesterday's high rate was the highest of any March since the deflation market of 1920.

Closing stock prices with other tables and market news will be found on page 39, 40 and 41.

Principal interest centers in the Mayoralty contests. Mayor Miller, who is completing a first term, and former Mayor Kiel, who served during the three preceding terms, are opponents in a hard-fought contest for the Republican nomination. Former Circuit Attorney Lawrence McDaniel, former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest and Dr. John H. Simon, the nominee in 1913, are seeking the Democratic nomination in a quiet and good-natured campaign.

Comptroller Nolte, Republican, is unopposed for nomination for a fourth successive term and there is no Democratic candidate. The 14 Republican Aldermen, whose terms are expiring are seeking reelection. Two are unopposed, but the others have from one to five opponents. The 14 Democratic candidates for the board will be named without further delay.

April 10 was the date recommended by Senate and House leaders for the special session. No explanation was given at the White House for the change.

Although the President stated that the extra session was to deal with farm relief legislation and tariff changes, Congress is not limited to the consideration of these two subjects.

Census and Reapportionment.
Measures for directing the taking of the 1930 census and reapportionment of the House of Representatives will be other problems. Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, has promised that legislation on these allied topics will be considered early in the session.

In calling the extra session, President Hoover fulfilled a promise made shortly before election day that he would call Congress into session on the 15th day of April, 1929, to receive such communication as may be made by the executive.

"And Whereas, Legislation to effect further agricultural relief and legislation for limited change of the tariff cannot in justice to our farmers, our laborers and our manufacturers be postponed."

Estimated Vote of 185,000.
Many politicians must not actively working with any faction are of the opinion that about 140,000 Republican ballots and 45,000 Democratic will be cast, a total of 185,000, or only 52 per cent of the registration of 348,551. In the last mayoralty primary, four years ago, there were 133,627 Republican ballots and 41,186 Democratic, a total of 174,813, or a registration then of approximately 299,000.

Kiel forces, however, anticipate there may be as high as 160,000 Republican ballots, and claim that Miller will win with a 40,000 majority. Miller's manager, Dr. Simon, a Republican vote of 145,000, claim a 25,000 majority for Miller.

McDaniel looks for 50,000 Democratic votes, of which he believes 25,000 will be for him. Priest's advisers expect 40,000 votes, with 24,000 of them for Priest. Dr. Simon's manager claims the doctor will get 20,000 or more out of 45,000.

The Post-Dispatch postal card straw vote, as was told yesterday, showed a majority of 175 for Miller in a total Republican vote of $709, which is about 4 per cent of the expected Republican vote. Worked out mathematically, this would indicate a lead of 4275 for Miller in the primary vote. The poll showed a pronounced lead for McDaniel in a small Democratic vote.

Thousands to Get Out Vote.
Most of the 7000 city employees will be busy all day tomorrow reminding voters to vote and even taking those friendly to Miller to the polls. A campaign of "at least four to six workers" in every precinct, "many of them volunteers." Besides volunteers and city employees, the Miller forces will be augmented by the precinct organizations of friendly members of the Republican City Committee. In all, Miller will have a small army active in his behalf.

Realizing the importance to their own interests of contracting this activity, Kiel's managers have arranged to have at least five and in some cases 10 workers in every ward. Miller's managers, on the other hand, are recruiting from the ward for Mayor clubs and from the organizations of committeemen supporting Kiel. This means several thousand more persons will be in touch with the voters.

It was stated by Dr. Simon's manager that probably 1000 men and women—at least 500 to a ward—would get out the vote for him, but that some precincts might not be covered. McDaniel expects to have 800 workers, including 200 volunteers and the organizations of friendly members of the Democratic City Committee. There will be a manager in every ward for Priest and about 200 volunteers and members of the staff of the Miller organization will cover about 400 of the precincts.

Sample ballots for guidance of voters.

VERA CRUZ RETAKEN
BY LOYAL TROOPS

By the Associated Press.
VERA CRUZ, March 7.—The seaport of Vera Cruz today was in the hands of loyal Government troops, while the defeated revolutionary forces of Gen. Jesus Aguirre were seeking to cut their way to safety. Some of them, who had fled toward the Isthmus of Tehuantepec were even thought to be on the way back in an effort to recapture the city, having failed to find an avenue of escape.

Col. Jose W. Cervantes, an old graduate of the Mexican Military Academy, is in command of the city.

Vera Cruz was taken over by the new authorities after Aguirre had been defeated in fighting at the general armory.

Gen. Aguirre left the city in a train, but his fleet could not last more than 20 or 40 hours. He personally was supported by only a handful of Yaqui Indians.

If Gen. Aguirre should attempt an escape to the north, he would be cut off by the garrisons at Cordova and Orizaba, while Gen. Tejada, who is loyal to the Government, is at Jalapa.

The new authorities here have offered the guarantee of protection to all and have invited merchants to continue business. The sale of liquor has been strictly forbidden.

Telegraph communication with Mexico City is interrupted.

The movement against Gen. Aguirre began Wednesday morning when a portion of his troops, headed by Col. Cervantes turned against the revolutionary leader and proclaimed their loyalty to the Government.

Fighting began at the main armory in Vera Cruz during which Gen. Luis de la Sierra and Gen. Gamus of Aguirre's staff were killed.

The loyal troops took possession of the armory and occupied strategic positions in the city. The followers of Gen. Aguirre concentrated at the railroad station and sought to fill their ranks in order to attack the town. This caused great alarm in the city and all

FIRING AUDIBLE
ON AMERICAN SIDE

At Vera Cruz, Gen Aguirre Driven From City Is Reported to Be Threatening Fresh Attack.

By the Associated Press.
EL PASO, Tex., March 7.—Federal and rebel troops met five miles south of the border this afternoon in a battle for the possession of Juarez, across the Rio Grande from this city.

The rebel forces opened fire on Juarez at 1 p. m. The city was completely cut off from communication with El Paso. The bombardment could be heard plainly in El Paso.

Through field glasses, observers at points of vantage in El Paso saw residents of Juarez running through the streets to find places of safety.

The Federal force, consisting of more than 200 men, was headed by Gen. Ignacio Flores. The rebels were reported to number about 500.

Two French 75's in armored cars will protect American property in El Paso if stray shells are fired across the border by either Mexican rebels or Federalists. Brig. Gen. Van Horn Moseley, commanding officer at Fort Bliss, so informed Gen. Matias Ramos, who formed the Federal forces in Juarez.

The rival forces first came together about five miles south of the city and the rebels opened fire on Juarez.

The fate of Mayor Augustin Gallo of Juarez remained a mystery. Held a prisoner with other officials by the Government, it was reported today he had been sent with the Federal army to meet the revolutionaries and would be used as a hostage in an attempt to prevent a battle. There was no confirmation of this report, however.

Supposed Woman Who Killed Self Is Found to Be a Man

"Rose Dickburn," tenant in rooming house, El Paso, Tex., who took a room at 3336 Washington boulevard five weeks ago and ended her life with gas today, after a woman, an employee of the Federal Reserve Bank, was found at the morgue to be a man.

The woman, sought for questioning by police, departed last week to keep house for a man named Fred. It was said at the rooming house. Her board had been paid by another man, who visited her at the rooming house as her husband.

"Rose Dickburn," had left a call for 2 p. m. today in order to return home to Chicago on an afternoon train. At that hour George G. Smith, son of the proprietor, obtained no response to his knock and noticed that a sheet was stuffed in the crack of the door. The body was found lying with the head on a small gas heater and covered by another sheet.

Co-Founder of Chain Is Beaten by Barber Faction in Battle of Proxies.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 7.—William Childs, co-founder of the Childs restaurant chain, and the members of his family, were removed from the company's directorate today by an opposition faction headed by William Barber, which held proxies for 50 per cent of the company's stock.

The restaurant chain was founded by Childs 40 years ago, but Barber, former co-owner of the chain, instituted the move for a new management after Childs put on non-meatless menus in the restaurants. Profits had been cut in half by this order, Barber said.

Legislation "Cannot Be Postponed" New President Says in First Proclamation.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—President Hoover today called for an extra session of the Seventy-first Congress to convene at noon Monday, April 15.

His proclamation stated that "Legislation to effect further agricultural relief and legislation for limited change of the tariff cannot in justice to our farmers, our laborers and our manufacturers be postponed."

April 10 was the date recommended by Senate and House leaders for the special session. No explanation was given at the White House for the change.

Although the President stated that the extra session was to deal with farm relief legislation and tariff changes, Congress is not limited to the consideration of these two subjects.

Census and Reapportionment.
Measures for directing the taking of the 1930 census and reapportionment of the House of Representatives will be other problems. Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, has promised that legislation on these allied topics will be considered early in the session.

In calling the extra session, President Hoover fulfilled a promise made shortly before election day that he would call Congress into session on the 15th day of April, 1929, to receive such communication as may be made by the executive.

"And Whereas, Legislation to effect further agricultural relief and legislation for limited change of the tariff cannot in justice to our farmers, our labor, and our manufacturers be postponed."

Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States, do hereby proclaim and declare that an extraordinary session of the Congress of the United States shall convene in extra session at the Capitol in the city of Washington on the 15th day of April, 1929, at 12 o'clock noon, of which all persons who shall at that time be entitled to act as members thereof, are hereby required to take notice.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States."

"Done at the city of Washington this 7th day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, and of the United States the 1535."

"HERBERT HOOVER,
By the President,
FRANK B. KELLOGG,
Secretary of State."

VERA CRUZ RETAKEN
BY LOYAL TROOPS

By the Associated Press.
VERA CRUZ, March 7.—The seaport of Vera Cruz today was in the hands of loyal Government troops, while the defeated revolutionary forces of Gen. Jesus Aguirre were seeking to cut their way to safety. Some of them, who had fled toward the Isthmus of Tehuantepec were even thought to be on the way back in an effort to recapture the city, having failed to find an avenue of escape.

Col. Jose W. Cervantes, an old graduate of the Mexican Military Academy, is in command of the city.

Vera Cruz was taken over by the new authorities after Aguirre had been defeated in fighting at the general armory.

Gen. Aguirre left the city in a train, but his fleet could not last more than 20 or 40 hours. He personally was supported by only a handful of Yaqui Indians.

If Gen. Aguirre should attempt an escape to the north, he would be cut off by the garrisons at Cordova and Orizaba, while Gen. Tejada, who is loyal to the Government, is at Jalapa.

The new authorities here have offered the guarantee of protection to all and have invited merchants to continue business. The sale of liquor has been strictly forbidden.

Telegraph communication with Mexico City is interrupted.

The movement against Gen. Aguirre began Wednesday morning when a portion of his troops, headed by Col. Cervantes turned against the revolutionary leader and proclaimed their loyalty to the Government.

Fighting began at the main armory in Vera Cruz during which Gen. Luis de la Sierra and Gen. Gamus of Aguirre's staff were killed.

The loyal troops took possession of the armory and occupied strategic positions in the city. The followers of Gen. Aguirre concentrated at the railroad station and sought to fill their ranks in order to attack the town. This caused great alarm in the city and all

ROOT'S FORMULA IS APPROVED BY GENEVA EXPERTS

Proposal for U. S. Adhesion to World Court Now to Be Transmitted to Members of Tribunal.

FRENCH HEARTILY SANCTION PLAN

Tentatively Suggested That a Protocol Be Drafted March 11, With Conference in September.

By Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World. Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co., Inc. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

GENEVA, March 7.—The proposal of Elihu Root, under which differences between the United States Senate and members of the World Court can be reconciled, thus paving the way for admission of the United States to the court, has been approved by British, French, German, Japanese and Italian legal experts.

It has been transmitted to Judges of the Permanent Court of International Justice in The Hague and unofficially to the nine members of the Council.

Following Root's conference with Aristide Blandin, French Foreign Minister, and Henri Fromageot, one of the chief delegates of France, Tuesday, the French delegation wholeheartedly approved the solution advanced. Root submitted his plan Saturday to Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, in the form of an unofficial memorandum.

Root's dinner guest last night was Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, but, according to information obtained, it is learned that Sir Cecil Hurst, legal adviser to Sir Austen, already has approved the step.

Stresemann to Meet Root. Gustave Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, has announced that he desires to meet Root and to discuss the latter's proposal whereby the Washington Government might join the World Court after the minorities controversy is finished.

Meanwhile, Frederick Gauss, German juridical expert, as well as Nobume Ito, who is the advisor for the Japanese legation, and a member of the committee which will meet March 11 to study the revision of the Court statutes, are both known to be favorable to the American idea. Vittorio Scialoja, Italian Minister, received a copy of the new scheme, together with the other Foreign Ministers and registered no objection on the part of Italy last night.

Root will confer today with the Finnish Foreign Minister, H. J. Procopio, spokesman for the Scandinavian-Baltic group of nations in the Council. He has told the Post-Dispatch and New York World that that group would champion the agreement among their respective nations.

Discussion already has shifted to the necessity of evolving procedure that would bring a compromise that could be made effective with the least possible delay. It has been tentatively suggested that a protocol be drafted March 11. It has been pointed out that after the submission of the report to members of the court, a special conference could be called in conjunction with the September assembly of the League.

Plan for Speedy Action. Under this tentative plan, at the September assembly details of the formula prepared by Elihu Root are to be ironed out and the signatures of the delegates affixed. Statements from other nations would then have received the draft protocol given the finishing diplomatic and legal touches by the statutes committee. Then, under the proposed plan, the proposal would be submitted to the United States Senate which could debate the matter and indicate its acceptance, conditional on ratification by the other members of the World Court.

This method, it was said by those in authority here, would make the United States a member of the World Court possibly before the end of autumn.

TEXT OF PROPOSAL PREPARED BY ROOT

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, March 7.—The associated Press has received the text of the formula prepared by Elihu Root as a method for bringing about adhesion of the United States to the World Court.

The formula is entitled "A suggestion for the purpose of facilitating the admission of the United States to the World Court."

Leaders of Rockefeller Faction In Fight to Oust Stewart

plines tempered in turn by a sense of undying gratitude towards those associates of mine on the board of directors, towards those thousands upon thousands of employees, my friends for years, my friends still, who so loyally stood back of me in the contest through which I just have passed.

"A friend in need is a friend indeed" and in the time of my need, the management or of the rank and file, deserted me. I cannot thank them adequately. In me they shall ever find a friend, and never an indifferent one.

Thanks Employee-Stockholders. "It is with no small sense of pride or of gratitude that I thank the 7901 of the 7918 employee-stockholders who have stood by me, and the 21,337 stockholders of the company who executed proxies on my behalf, or voted personally for me, as against the 15,204 who gave their proxies to my opponents. It is a magnificent record of gratification that of the 19,409 stockholders in the states where the company markets its products, 15,051 voted for my retention. It is a magnificent record to our administration from the people who knew it best.

"The stockholders, however, are not alone the Standard Oil Co. (Indiana). The entire list of shareholders could be changed within a year with no great effect upon the company, except as it would greatly benefit the company were shares now held in the Midwest; but in the more than 25,000 employees, in those loyal hard working men and women who are on the firing line in sales and producing fields and refinery offices, and to be found the very heart and soul of the Standard Oil Co. (Indiana). Guided by a board of directors that is at once idealistic and practical, and of high degree, it is those loyal souls who have made the company what it is today—one of the industrial marvels of the world.

"To those thousands of employees who are my friends and have supported me, I wish to say a word: Support the new management. You know those old associates of mine on the board of directors. Their hearts are still with you as they have always been. Give them the same loyal support you have given them and me for so many years. The Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) must still go forward.

Urges Vacation Plan. "I wish, too, to speak a word on behalf of those loyal employees, and I trust that the new management will not consider it an intrusion, will realize that I, at least as well perhaps as any man living, know the needs of the Standard Oil Co. (Indiana). I urge that management, with the support of the shareholders, to carry out a plan on whose accomplishment I had set my heart, but which I was prevented from working out by the pressing demands of other matters—vacations with pay for every employee of the company of a certain period of service, who does not get a vacation, who is paid hourly paid worker in the refineries or a service station man or wherever and how employed.

"My old associates and I have long considered it. We found many holders in the way, but all of these can be surmounted. I urge them to call to their assistance the employees themselves, to submit to them the difficulties, to ask their help in solving them. Eleven years ago, as chief executive of the company, have taught me that if the employees know they are to be treated equitably, they will grant equity in return, and how often have I found this advice justified. With their advice and help a satisfactory vacation plan can be evolved. That it will benefit the company I have no doubt whatever.

"And so to those loyal employees, to my true associates on the Board of Directors, to those thousands of stockholders who voted and worked for me, and to those people in all parts of the world who helped me during the contest just closed, I say good-by as chief executive of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. Would that I knew how to thank them adequately."

W. W. Aldrich, representing the Rockefeller interests, said in a statement after the stockholders' meeting, that there was no decision on the part of his group as to a chairman of the Board of Directors.

Another Government statement said that the naval forces at Vera Cruz, which steamed out to sea at the beginning of the rebellion, Complete tranquility prevails in the capital. The inhabitants see and know nothing of the revolution except what they read in the newspapers. Occasionally troops are marching to the railway station.

The first train north out of Mexico City since the outbreak of the revolution left for Laredo at 9 p. m. Wednesday.

Article VII of the 1928 protocol, referred to in the last sentence of the formula, provides that the United States may at any time notify the secretary-general of the League that it is withdrawing from its adherence to the World Court.

Stewart Ousted by Rockefeller Group

Directors. That, he said, was entirely up to the board. In obedience to the bylaws, the board met first at the company offices, but adjourned at once to the Community House.

The Rockefeller representatives, numbering about half a dozen, took seats in the front row of the auditorium, while the other directors and the other stockholders came on the stage from a rear entrance.

Contrary to expectations, the hall was not crowded, although the lower floor was comfortably filled. Not more than a dozen were in the single gallery at the rear. When Stewart appeared from the rear of the stage there was vigorous handclapping from spots in the gathering, but nothing resembling an ovation.

He Jokes Mildly. Stewart seemed somewhat drawn and tired, but displayed no nervousness. He looked his usual vigor and there was nothing in his mildly pleasant demeanor to suggest the blustering bellicosity of his recent public statements. In wait caused by a clerical delay, he introduced each of the directors to the audience. He joked mildly, presenting the president of the company as "old Eddie Seibert."

The tellers entrusted with checking the stock registers reported that 17,419 shares of stock were personally represented by stockholders present, and that 7,028,710 were represented by proxy. The total number of shares eligible to vote is 9,237,000.

Stewart then proceeded to read the annual financial statement. Despite the impressive showing of the figures, the reading was a tiresome affair, and he seemed to have ever dramatic content than in the atmosphere. Thus far there had been nothing in the procedure to lend color to this "battle of giants."

John A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Burton and Gentry Cash, manager of the Whiting refinery, were placed in nomination to fill vacancies on the board of directors. The board from the floor by Winthrop Aldrich, president of John D. Rockefeller Jr. Burton was nominated to succeed Stewart as chairman and Traylor to succeed C. L. Stephens, general counsel.

Col. Stewart said that while he was placed in an embarrassing situation, inasmuch as his name was among those directors up for reelection he would consent to serve as presiding officer as provided for by the company's by-laws. He said that since a group of New York men there was quite interested in the meeting, he would be glad to have one of them come to the platform and assist him.

Stewart Group Nominates. The slate of officers for the Stewart group was placed in nomination by A. S. Hopkins of Chicago, and in addition to the nomination of all present directors, asked for the nomination of Dr. Gentry Cash, superintendent of Whiting Refinery, and Thomas P. Cook. At this point J. F. Hays, a stockholder from Chicago, moved that two shareholders at large be nominated as directors, one to represent shareholders with more than 500 shares, and the other shareholders with less than 500 shares.

Mr. Aldrich protested the motion was out of order. Stewart said that in his opinion the motion was in order. Aldrich requested the help in solving them. Hays as chief executive of the company, have taught me that if the employees know they are to be treated equitably, they will grant equity in return, and how often have I found this advice justified. With their advice and help a satisfactory vacation plan can be evolved. That it will benefit the company I have no doubt whatever.

Reads Address Over Radio

Kiel reads a busy evening, during which he was driven more than 20 miles by addressing the Fruit & Produce Club at dinner at the Missouri Athletic Association, after which he spoke before audiences of Croats and others. Italian and American residents, and Negroes, and read his first prepared address in years over radio station KMOX.

Laying new emphasis on a subject he had mentioned before, Kiel told his various hearers that it was essential to the city's welfare that downtown property values be protected, and he said the river front improvement project would accomplish this.

A tendency of business to move westward and the recent bank consolidations, it is known, have made real estate owners wonder about the future of some downtown blocks.

Instead of the audiences to which he is accustomed, Kiel made his radio speech alone in a quiet room, with only his brother, two sons, a daughter and a daughter-in-law, and reporters to watch through a window.

CAN'T FORGET HOW TO SKATE OR BE MAYOR, SAYS KIEL

Takes Spin at Roller Rink and Then Uses It as Theme of His Last Campaign Speech.

FAVORS EXPEDITING DOWNTOWN TRAFFIC

Assails Police Judges for Being Lenient in Meeting Out Punishment to Rockless Drivers.

Standing on roller skates, after he had spun about the rink a few times, former Mayor Kiel concluded his campaign for the Republican mayoralty nomination at 11:15 o'clock last night, at the Palladium, with this brief address:

"This is the first speech I ever made wearing roller skates and I'm surprised to find after 30 years that I can stand on them, but skating is one of those things you can't forget. There are other things I can't forget and one is how to be Mayor of your great city. If you want me to go back, I'll like it; if you don't, I'll be sorry. Don't make me sorry but go to the polls and vote for me. Good luck and God bless you."

More than 100 skaters and on-lookers were present. Kiel had rolled about the rink alone and then with Rodney Peters, a star skater. Meanwhile, members of the Italian and American residents, and Negroes, and read his first prepared address in years over radio station KMOX.

Laying new emphasis on a subject he had mentioned before, Kiel told his various hearers that it was essential to the city's welfare that downtown property values be protected, and he said the river front improvement project would accomplish this.

Gives Theory on Government. "It is my theory of municipal government," the former Mayor said into the microphone, "that the city itself, through its executive officers, must take a leading part in modernizing our city and keeping pace with world competition. I think we should operate our city government on a basis whereby our expenditures are limited to the current year's income, that efficiency in municipal service is as important as it is in private business and that in the planning and development of those projects which are to be paid for with the bond issue money, the projects themselves should be so designed as to keep within the amount of money specified for specific purposes.

Why Cunningham's Built a Style Store in St. Louis

FOR HERE is a city of 800,000, alive with a new spirit of enthusiasm that is carrying St. Louis through the greatest progressive epoch in its history... $87,000,000 for civic projects... the city long visualized emerges a reality... wide boulevards form traffic arteries... the massive courthouse juts into a new skyline... night becomes day with the world's greatest lighting system... a municipal plaza evolves... subways and river front drives inspire hopes of the morrow.

CUNNINGHAM'S, ever alert to a new pace of progress, launched a magnificent establishment... commensurate with this growth... this new St. Louis wanted Cunningham's type of store... its environment of continental luxury... its setting for style... its courteous service... maintaining style edicts of the world's fashion centers... with ideals of quality and value that have not been compromised... prices that are amazingly moderate... this is CUNNINGHAM'S, a Show-Place and the Fashion Mart of St. Louis.

AMID brilliantly modernistic appointments CUNNINGHAM'S patrons find their every wish granted... for here STYLE is the alpha and omega in every department. And excellent quality, price and service are synonymous with the HOUSE OF CUNNINGHAM.

THE ever-increasing patronage of CUNNINGHAM'S is a valuable tribute to the unwavering integrity and sound business principles of the establishment... and ultimately to the STYLE predominance of CUNNINGHAM'S apparel.

"A customer sold me on Bond Bread"

"Quality and Service" on truck and store of MR. EDWARD EBELER, 3868 Ashland Avenue, are well known to his customers, who have for 12 years found the best in each line of groceries, meats and vegetables there. The telephone calls are COLFAX 9304 and COLFAX 1645.

I've got the finest bunch of customers in the city. At least I think so, and I have a lot of respect for their opinion on the food I sell them from my store.

One day a customer came into my store and, as usual, asked for a loaf of Bond Bread.

"Why do you always ask for Bond?" I said.

She pointed to the wrapper on the loaf, and said:

"There's a guarantee of purity I know I can depend on.

"And the texture of Bond is firm. It's close-knit. That means that it will retain its freshness. Taste some. It tastes better than other bread. And the reason is that Bond has the very best ingredients in it money can buy."

A lot of my other customers are just like this one. They know the food they buy. Bond outsells all other bread in my store.

To my way of thinking that's a mighty fine recommendation for Bond.

EDWARD EBELER

voters will be issued for all majority candidates, except Dr. Simon. Kiel completed his campaign last night, although he may make brief visits at a meeting or two tonight. Mayor Miller, McDaniel and Dr. Simon will finish with radio speeches tonight and Priest will deliver a final address at a Twelfth Ward organization meeting.

Republican forces began lining up for Kiel and Miller shortly after the general election last November and the campaign between them has been going on for two months, a longer time than usual. The Democratic campaign, however, did not get under way until a few days before the time for filing candidates expired on Feb. 25.

The Republican contest has been acrimonious. Kiel has accused Miller of extravagance with bond issue money and, in various ways, inefficient operation of some governmental agencies. Miller has ridiculed Kiel's charges and replied that the former Mayor was engaged solely in destructive criticism. Kiel insists he has been constructive in his criticism and his platform. Miller says Kiel had the office long enough. In contrast, each Democratic candidate has said his opponents were fine men whom he could support. The Democrats are hopeful that the Republican squabble and the focusing of public attention on the alleged faults of the Republican candidates may create a chance to elect a Democratic Mayor. Dr. Simon is frankly seeking Republican votes.

In spite of the rival claims, some political observers are convinced that the race between Miller and Kiel is close and may go either way. A statement issued by women leaders in Kiel's forces asserts that the feminine vote will nominate Kiel because many women who were for Miller four years ago have changed their minds since then.

How Committees Line Up.
Thirty-three members of the Republican City Committee are supporting Miller and 22 are for Kiel, with another member inactive because of illness. Twenty-seven members of the Democratic City Committee are for McDaniel, 21 for Priest and another claimed for him, three are supporting Dr. Simon and the attitude of four is uncertain. In Democratic ranks there has been a distinction between the attitude of committee members as leaders and that of their ward organizations and not all ward groups have upheld their representatives by definite official action. There have been disagreements in several wards and in a few it was voted not to make endorsements.

In both Republican and Democratic circles there are a number of instances where the committeeman and committeewoman in a ward are backing opposing candidates. All five majority candidates have had previous experience as candidates for office. Kiel was elected Mayor three times and nominated for Sheriff in 1912 but defeated by a Democrat because of the Bull Moose split. Miller carried St. Louis for the nomination for Governor in 1924 but was defeated in the statewide vote. McDaniel was nominated for Circuit Attorney in 1920, having been elected previously in 1916, but was defeated in the Harding landslide. Priest carried St. Louis for the gubernatorial nomination in 1924 but lost the state; he ran 600 votes behind Breckenridge Long, the nominee for United States Senator in 1920, in St. Louis. Dr. Simon might have been elected Mayor in 1919, against Kiel, but an independent candidate polled enough votes to prevent that.

Political observers think the following Republican Aldermen are likely to defeat their opponents for the nomination: Duke of the First Ward; Wiebe of the Fifth; Wander of the Seventh; Fett of the Eleventh; Neu of the Thirteenth and Watts of the Twenty-first. The other incumbents, who have had contests, but seem to have a certain amount of advantage are: Koettker of the Ninth; Rieffling of the Fifteenth; Studt of the Twenty-first; Edell of the Twenty-third; Nangle of the Twenty-fifth and Wimer of the Twenty-seventh. Some of these Aldermen may suffer upsets, politicians believe, and to some extent their chances depend on who is nominated for Mayor.

Violators of Election Laws at Primary to Be Prosecuted.

Any violator of the election laws in tomorrow's primary will be vigorously prosecuted, the Election Board declared in an announcement issued last night. The board's statement reads:

"The Board of Election Commissioners emphasizes the point that every election official at each of the 470 polling places must understand and be thoroughly impressed with the conviction that each official has an individual responsibility to strictly maintain, and vigilantly watch that others maintain, fair and honest elections.

"Every candidate shall have a square deal. Partisanship shall not color the conduct of election officials.

"Any violator of the election laws will be vigorously prosecuted and any proof of improper conduct not specifically covered by the election laws will be summarily dealt with."

For any information needed concerning the primary, the Election Board can be reached by calling Central 2870 (five telephones) or the City Hall exchange, Main 5550, stations 24, 56, 92 and 99.

$20,000 HOLDUP OF POLICY GAME MAN UNREPORTED

East Side Authorities Take No Action Toward Arrest of Five Robbers Who Kidnaped Harry King.

Although Harry King, proprietor of a large policy game in Brooklyn, Ill., was robbed of approximately $20,000 yesterday by five armed men who kidnaped him but released him without harm, no report of the robbery has been made to the authorities and no investigation is under way concerning either the robbery or the operation of the gambling enterprise.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur Kraessig of East St. Louis told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had received no word of the robbery. He refused to send a Deputy to Brooklyn, a Negro settlement, to investigate.
Matt Douglass, Negro Marshal of Brooklyn, said he had heard rumors of the robbery, but was not investigating, because he had received no official report. The robbers threatened to kill King if he appealed to the authorities.

The robbers, all armed and wearing handkerchief masks, arrived at the headquarters of the game yesterday morning a few minutes before 9 o'clock. Just as King was alighting from his automobile, driven by his Negro chauffeur, the men intimidated King and the chauffeur and four other employees who were inside the building.

Forced to Open Two Safes.
They then forced King to open two safes, one of which was equipped with a time lock set for 9 o'clock. After scooping the money, including $5000 King drew from the bank Tuesday, into three waste paper baskets, they forced King to enter their automobile and drove toward Horseshoe Lake, while two of their number in King's automobile with his chauffeur followed the robbers' car.

At a point four miles out on the Eagles' Park road they stopped, permitted King to get into his own car and then told him: "We're not going to hurt you, but if you ever say a word of this to anybody, we'll come back and kill you and blow up your place." King promised to "forget it."

Brooklyn, headquarters of the game, which is said to be the only one operating on the East Side, has less than 25 white persons among its 2000 inhabitants. Because of the unanimity with which the Negroes vote, it frequently wields the deciding power in county elections.

Says People Want Game.
The majority of the residents, according to the Negro Mayor, are well aware that the game operates and want it to continue. The Mayor, Burton Washington, who also is principal of the Brooklyn High School, told a Post-Dispatch reporter some time ago: "The people of Brooklyn want the game.
To oppose it would be political suicide."

King has been arrested twice at the instance of Negro welfare societies, but each time the charges against him were dismissed for want of evidence.

The annual turnover of the game is said to be approximately $4,475,000. These figures are based upon the fact that the game operates every day and that it is said to take in approximately $15,000 a day. Part of the "take" is returned to the players in prizes.
Twice a day, numbers are placed in a large copper drum and after the drum has been revolved for some minutes, winning numbers are withdrawn. Any holder of a policy ticket is entitled to attend the drawings, which are held on the stage of a small auditorium provided for the purpose.

Offices for Policy Agents.
In addition to the auditorium,
the structure has a lunch room, numerous small offices for its agents, a private office for the cashier's forces and another for King. Slot machines line the walls of the lunchroom. The two-story frame structure was acquired by King in December, 1926, and was remodeled. Since then the substantial growth of the business has made it necessary to build an addition, with barred windows, the time-lock safe and other facilities to guard against robbery. It was once the property of the notorious gambler, Roy Stevenson, now dead.
Forty agents operate from the headquarters, and many of them have numerous salesmen who dispose of the tickets on small commissions. The company maintains two substations in East St. Louis, has agents in almost all large East Side industrial plants, and sells policy tickets throughout St. Louis, St. Louis County and Madison and St. Clair counties in Illinois.
It has never been molested by law enforcement authorities.

Liquor Raids in Kansas City.

drive by Federal agents here. Drug stores and so-called soft drink places yielded 20 alleged offenders.

Ten women and one man were arrested at an apartment building singular appearance and reputation for liquor orgies and accidents.

M'DANIEL RAKE'S MILLER, KIEL FOR PRIMARY FUNDS

Candidate for Mayoralty Nomination on Democratic Ticket Asserts People Ultimately Pay Bill

PRIEST OPPOSES SUBWAY PROPOSAL

Asserts City Has Overcrowded Streets With Public Utility Companies
—Condemns the Charter.

Lawrence McDaniel and former Judge Henry S. Priest, two of the three candidates for the Democratic mayoralty nomination in tomorrow's primary, delivered speeches last night, the former at four meetings and by radio, and the latter before the Jeffersonian Woman's Club, 4569 Washington boulevard.

"Recommending" himself, as in previous speeches, McDaniel emphasized the declaration that he was his own campaign manager, treasurer of his own campaign committee, and the sole contributor to his own campaign fund.

"The use of money in elections has become a scandal," he said, "so much so that all states have laws limiting the expenditures of candidates. These laws are disregarded by almost every candidate for public office. Most people who contribute to a political campaign do so as an investment, and their expectation is that their investment will be returned to them plus an enormous rate of interest.

"This is especially true, in a municipal campaign, where party lines are not so clearly drawn and where favors are of much more value. A casual observer could not help knowing that enormous sums of money have been spent by each of the two Republican contestants for the nomination, and that much, if not all, of this money is contributed by people who expect, if their candidate is nominated and elected, that they will profit by his election; that they will receive back their contribution plus a 1000 per cent interest.

"Now, how are they to obtain the return of their investment with interest? The successful candidate cannot, out of his own pocket, repay them, and the only way they can be repaid is by having business with the City of St. Louis or by receiving favors and preferment from the administration.

"Then the cost of the campaign is borne by the taxpayers, plus the 1000 per cent interest, which is exacted on campaign contributions and as everyone in the City of St. Louis, directly or indirectly, is a taxpayer, the people of St. Louis are paying for the political campaign.

McDaniel talked of bond issue expenditures, saying they should be made in such a manner as to promote both commercial growth and civic development. He demanded economy, and condemned the advancing of assessed valuations, which is the only method now available for increasing taxes for municipal purposes.

Priest Opposes Subway.
Priest, in his discussion of city problems and municipal expenditures, said:

"I can't think at this time a subway should be built. There may come a time when it is justified, but at present New York City is the only city that seems justified in having such a system.

"This city has been guilty of overcrowding the streets by public utility companies. If there has already been established a street car line on Washington avenue that renders an adequate service, why encumber the street with busses? There can't be competition of two companies on a street like that. The companies should be treated fairly by the city and should, in turn, treat the city fairly.

"Our City Charter is a great one to perpetuate the politician in office. The Mayor is king and may do almost as he pleases. He is an absolute dictator and with the power he possesses can return himself to office time and time again.

"There should be three branches of city government—executive, legislative and judicial—with no unlimited power conferred on them. Let each be a check upon the other, so you may know what is going on. You are entitled to an upper and lower house.

"There is now an incongruous arrangement of taxation and appropriation. There is an extravagant appropriation of funds for snakes and fish, while the funds appropriated for the maintenance of dependents in our institutions is a meager amount."

James W. Byrnes, speaking for Priest, ridiculed Mayor Miller, "the pride of the Osarks," for claiming credit for the bond issue, which, Byrnes said, was due neither to him nor his predecessor, Mayor Kiel, but to "a group of men with vision." James J. Milligan spoke for Priest, arguing against a subway, and attacking McDaniel for having supported Charles M. Hay in the senatorial primary last August.

WILL OF DR. BALL GIVES BOOKS TO MEDICAL SOCIETY

Son and Daughter Inherit $10,000
Each From St. Louis Oculist and Writer.

The will of Dr. James Moore Ball, noted oculist and writer on medical subjects, who died last week at his home, 4214 Washington boulevard, of heart disease, and filed in Probate Court today.

Dated Jan. 23, five weeks before his death, the will bequeathed $10,000 each to a daughter, Mrs. Robert H. Lafan of York, Pa., and a son, Logan Marshall Ball, president of the Ball-Butler Insurance Co., and $5000 to a brother, Marvin G. Ball of Waterloo, Mo. Miss Evelyn E. Hadfield, Dr. Ball's secretary, receives $3000.

The will left Dr. Ball's collection of surgical instruments to four St. Louis oculists. The St. Louis Medical Society was bequeathed his valuable collection of rare old medical books, the collection to be placed in the Bartscher room of the Medical Society's quarters at 559 Lindell boulevard. So long as the books are borrowed and not kept permanently, the collection will be open to public inspection. Otherwise the books will revert to the estate, the will provides.

Stock in the Central Life Insurance Co. was given to Robert E. Moloney, an attorney, and to the son, to be held in trust for 10 years. At the expiration of this period, the stock, together with any increases, will be divided among Dr. Ball's grandchildren.

Residue of the estate, the value of which has not been estimated, was left to the widow, Mrs. Naomi Marshall Ball, who was named executrix.

Hotel Guest Has Disappeared.
Police have been asked to search for Harry J. Horner, 45 years old, a traveling salesman of Chattanooga, Tenn., who disappeared from his room at Hotel Jefferson on Feb. 25, and has not been heard from since. The search for Horner was requested by his wife, who resides at Chattanooga with their child, Horner, an implement salesman, registered at the Jefferson on Feb. 25. He did not check out of the hotel, leaving his personal effects in his room.

SENTENCED TO DEATH FOR MURDER IN WEST

Alphonse Reilly, Ex-St. Louisian to Be Hanged in San Quentin May 17.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 7.—Alphonse Reilly, 21-year-old former St. Louisian, who shot and killed the manager of a Spring street shoe store Jan. 9, was sentenced yesterday to be hanged May 17 at San Quentin Prison.

The youth's attorney has filed notice of appeal and may gain a new trial.

A jury last week found Reilly guilty of killing Abraham Sandel, a man when the store manager resisted a holdup attempt. "I went in and asked to see some shoes," Reilly testified. "I told him I had no money but would take the shoes and for him to go to the back of the store. He would not go so I began to shoot. I guess I would have held the place up if he had gone back, but what I really went in for was the shoes. "I was preparing to beat my way home to St. Louis," Reilly says his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Morton Reilly, who formerly lived on Hodiament avenue, St. Louis.

MILITARY PACT FAKER FREED

agreement published in a Dutch newspaper, was released yesterday. The examining magistrate ruled that the fake was not prejudicial and, under the Belgian law, did not constitute ground for detaining Frank in prison.

 ADMITS $20,000 THEFT

Bank Protected by President

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 BONNE TERRE, Mo., March 7.
 W. Bryan Cozcan, considered by his neighbors "an ideal banker and an ideal home man," was charged with embezzlement and released on $5000 bond today after an unexpected visit of a State bank examiner disclosed a $20,000 shortage in the Bank of Elvins, of which he was cashier. His salary was $3000 a year.

 Cozcan admitted the peculations, which covered a period of six years. He gave some aid in going over his accounts and promised to tell what he had done with the money, but has not yet done so.
 Henry Miller, president of the bank, from his personal funds, repaid the bank the amount embezzled by Cozcan. Then the bank was sold to the Security Bank of Elvins.
 The bank examiner arrived at Elvins unexpectedly last week.
 Cozcan, who had no time to remove the ledger sheets which would disclose the discrepancies in his accounts, left unexpectedly in his automobile and remained away for two days, but returned and added in checking up. It appeared that Cozcan had embezzled the money by falsifying the ledger sheets of individual accounts, and concealed this theft by removing the falsified sheets before every bank examination.

 Cozcan is married and in his thirties. His home is modest and his automobile unpretentious and his neighbors say he is not extravagant.

THOMAS' GROW HAIR

STOP FALLING HAIR AND END ALL DANDRUFF
Says Reporter in Newspaper Play

"All efforts to stop my hair-fall proved useless—until I started Thomas' treatment. To some persons excessive hair-fall is merely an annoyance, but to one on the stage the possibility of baldness is looked upon almost hysterically. I sincerely recommend Thomas' scalp treatment to any person troubled with dandruff, falling hair, or baldness, because I feel that this treatment can do for any one what it has done for me," writes Roger Pryor.

Fifteen Years of Success
The reliability of Thomas' treatment is indicated by its fifteen years of success. However, it embodies all modern therapeutic agents of known value in treating hair and scalp disorders. Last year approximately 16,000 men and women throughout the country decided to retain or regain their hair by this proved method.

Examination Without Charge
At any of the Thomas' offices the trichologist in charge will gladly examine your hair and scalp without charge and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do in your particular case.

ARMED ROBBER FORCES WAY IN AUTO, GETS $127

Kroger Store Manager and Butcher Held Up as They Are Leaving Place.

Morell Caldwell, manager of a Kroger store at 4755 Kensington avenue, and Aberlardo Alvarez, a butcher, closed the store at 7 p. m. yesterday and were getting in Alvarez's car when an armed man forced his way in the machine with them.

The robber forced Alvarez to drive to an alley near McMillan and Walton avenues, where he took $96 from Caldwell and $31 from Alvarez. The money was part of the day's receipts from the store. The man escaped on foot.

Two robbers held up William Czagany, attendant at an oil filling station at Skinker road and McPherson avenue, at 10:30 p. m. and escaped with $79, Czagany reported to police.

Howard Griffing, attendant at an oil filling station at 2802 Russell boulevard, was on his way home at 11 p. m. when two men in an automobile crowded his car to the curb at Longfellow place and Nebraska avenue. One of the men struck Griffing on the head with a revolver and robbed him of $15.

James Sieber, attendant at a filling station at 2241 O'Fallon street, in an argument over the price of a tire, knocked Copley down and ran away with the tire yesterday afternoon. Police later arrested a suspect, but failed to recover the tire.

Following a report that burglars were looting the St. Louis Baker's Co-operative Association headquarters, 900 South Theresa avenue, police of the Laclede Avenue District surrounded the place and arrested two men who they found hiding in a section of the building used as a garage. The suspects gave their names as Kenneth Bennett and James McDermott.

Burglars broke a window in the grocery of Charles Luttrell, 4301 North Twentieth street, early today and carried away the cash register. The register was later recovered in an alley, two blocks from the store. It had been broken open and 20 pennies, all it contained, taken.

Burglars stole a radio and 16 cartons of cigarettes from the saloon of John Vollet, 3008 Ferry street, last night.

MAYOR MILLER SAYS HE WAS MISQUOTED ABOUT ANCESTOR States William Blount Was Member of Constitutional Convention, and Not Chairman.

Mayor Miller today said that in his campaign addresses he never had made the statement that one of his ancestors was "chairman of the organization that wrote the Constitution of the United States," as was published in last Saturday's Post-Dispatch.

What he did say, the Mayor added, was that his ancestor signed the Constitution. The statement in Saturday's Post-Dispatch was written from the stenographic notes of a reporter.

Miller produced an application for membership in the Missouri Society of the Sons of the American Revolution which listed his descent from William Blount, a member of the Continental Congress from 1782 to 1784, and again in 1786-87, and a member of the constitutional convention at Philadelphia in 1787.

Later George Washington, as President, appointed William Blount "Governor of the Territory South of the Ohio River." Miller is a member of the society.

RUTH HAVILAND, WHO TRIED TO GO ON BYRD TRIP, WEDS
Marries Dale Seltz, Veteran Pilot. After They Buy $25,000 Airplane Together.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 7.—Ruth Haviland, Fairfax Field house, and Dale Seltz, veteran pilot and flying school owner, were married last night.

Yesterday they received "Stan-o-lind," a 17-passenger tri-motored plane, which they purchased together for $25,000. Last night they decided to be married, and announced plans for an extended honeymoon in the big ship.

Miss Haviland attracted public notice when she flooded Commander Richard Byrd with letters and telegrams, and even visited him in trying to persuade him to take her on his Arctic expedition.

Byrd refused, declaring public opinion prevented taking a woman on such a hazardous trip.

SERVICE CARS ON BROADWAY
A new service car line was placed in operation today between Mannion's Park, South Broadway and Lorens street, and Union Market, Sixth and Morgan streets.

The cars will operate over Broadway on a three-minute schedule during rush hours and at five-minute intervals during other periods. Between 6:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. A fare of 15 cents will be charged.

Found Unconscious in Cell, Dies.
An elderly man identified only as Tim Crawford died today at City Hospital. He asked to be permitted to sleep in a cell in the Newstead Police Station Tuesday night and was found unconscious a short time later. A four-ounce bottle that smelled of kerosene lay beside him.

MERCHANT SHOT BY SALOON MAN DIES

August Lehr, 39, Had Refused to Identify His Confessed Assailant.

August Lehr, 39 years old, a merchant, 4516A Nebraska avenue, died at City Hospital today of a bullet wound in the chest, refusing to tell who shot him, although Albert W.
Hamilton, a saloonkeeper, informed police he shot Lehr early last Sunday in a quarrel over an old debt of $120.

Hamilton said that Lehr came to his saloon at 4615 Delmar boulevard and demanded the $120.
Hamilton paid $10 on account, he said, but Lehr refused to depart.
Hamilton said Lehr insisted on full payment, followed him behind the bar, and picked up a soda bottle and raised it as if to strike Hamilton. Hamilton added that he obtained his revolver from behind the bar and shot Lehr in self-defense.

Although wounded near the heart, Lehr staggered from the saloon and managed to reach a physician's office on South Jefferson avenue, from which he was sent to the Lutheran Hospital, later being transferred to City Hospital. His only statement to police was that he had been shot in resisting a holdup on the street. He gave no details. Later, police received information which led them to arrest Hamilton, who is 57 years old, Hamilton, taken to the hospital, identified Lehr as the man he had shot, but Lehr refused to identify Hamilton.

Lehr had been taken to the doctor's office by a friend, William Eiseperrmann, 3803 Indiana avenue.
Eiseperrmann said he, Lehr and a girl had gone riding in St. Louis County Saturday night and had visited several roadhouses. Lehr left his companions about midnight at Kingshighway and Delmar boulevard. Eiseperrmann said he later chanced to meet Lehr in South St. Louis and took him to the physician's office.

BANKRUPT STORE BRINGS $300
CASH BUT FEES TAKE IT ALL

Maurice M. Figus of Maplewood Says Attorneys, Not Creditors, Got the Money.

When Maurice M. Figus, former proprietor of the Figus Shoe Store, Maplewood, encountered financial difficulties last fall, he made an assignment for benefit of creditors.
So far, however, the creditors have failed to benefit, as the $300 in cash which the property realized under the sale to his wife was largely consumed in attorneys' fees and expenses, according to his testimony in Bankruptcy Court yesterday.

Figus, who entered bankruptcy
last Dec. 20, listing assets of $100 and debts of $2130, testified Jacob Mellman, the attorney who represented him in the assignment and sale, received $100 of the $300 for his services. The attorney's brother, Morris Mellman, was paid $25 for acting as trustee under the assignment, he said. Most of the rest of the $300 went for expenses in filing bankruptcy proceedings, including a fee of $75 to a second lawyer who filed the petition.

His wife, Mrs. Minerva Figus, testified she bought the business for $400, of which $200 represented cash and $200 a waiver by her husband of his exemptions in the bankruptcy action. She said she now conducts the Figus Shoe Store at the same address in Maplewood and that her husband merely "helps" her.

ENGROSSES BILL TO INCREASE GAME COMMISSIONER'S SALARY

Missouri Senate Cuts Proposed Raise: $2500 a Year, $2000 Annually Approved.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 7.—
An increase in salary from $5000 to $8000 a year would be provided for the State Game and Fish Commissioner by a bill engrossed in the Senate yesterday. Originally the measure provided a $4500 increase annually, but this was cut to $2000 by an amendment by Senator Wommack.

The Senate also engrossed a proposal by Senator Wommack to change the close of the wild duck season to Jan. 7 instead of April 20, to conform with the Federal regulations. This is necessary for Missouri to benefit under the bird refuge bill passed by Congress recently.

Two bills affecting street railway companies were introduced in the Senate by Senator Casey of Kansas City. The principal bill would require street railways to be taxed in the same manner that other railroads in the State are now taxed.
Under present regulations the State Tax Commission assesses all the street railway property for taxation, and in other railroads it assesses roadbeds and actual operating equipment, while round-houses, shops and other auxiliary property is assessed by the local assessors at slightly different rates.
The other bill would empower street railways to carry freight and make connections for that purpose.

GOV. CAULFIELD COMPLIMENTS HOOVER FOR APPOINTING HYDE

JEFFERSON CITY, March 7.—
Gov. Caulfield wrote to President Hoover yesterday complimenting him on the appointment of former Gov. Arthur M. Hyde as Secretary of Agriculture. He wrote:
"Your choice of former Gov.
Hyde of Missouri for the high office of Secretary of Agriculture is consistent with your own fine character and your splendid program of achievement to which the people of the United States are looking forward with confidence.

"The experience and attainments of Arthur M. Hyde render him positively fit for the high administrative office to which you have called him. No choice could be more pleasing to the people of Missouri."

Irradiation of Quaker Farina
by Ultra-Violet Rays important new food development

NOW a way has been found to bring you and your children at the breakfast table that "something" in sunlight which has such a tremendously beneficial effect upon health; which makes children's bones grow straight and strong; their teeth harden and become durable. Vitamin "D," scientists have named this mysterious quality.

The famous hot breakfast cereal, Quaker Farina, is now given Vitamin "D" by irradiation with Ultra-Violet Light under the Steenbock Process.
When children grow up "sun starved" for lack of Vitamin "D" they are apt to show it by bow legs. Their teeth are soft. They don't eat; they are "always having colds." As high as 90% of city children show signs of Vitamin "D" deficiency say health authorities. This fact makes the need of finding new ways to get "sunshine" of prime importance.

By irradiation with Ultra-Violet Light Quaker Farina, famous hot breakfast food, is given Vitamin "D" in a form that can be easily passed on to you! An exceedingly important discovery, authorities call this.
Won't you try it? Irradiated Quaker Farina is the creamy white heart of the wheat. An energy food of fine flavor. "Irradiation" doesn't change this, nor its appearance. And now it has an

Small danger of "sun starvation" here!

added health-value that no other hot cereal can claim! Your grocer has irradiated Quaker Farina. NOTE: All Quaker Farina is irradiated even though some packages are not so marked.

After all,
most husbands are like children

MANY a man owes his daily fitness, his success, to the wife who sees that "he takes good care of himself." She watches that he gets enough sleep. She makes up for those easy-to-grab lunches he trusts his health to at noon. She acts as family physician with every meal she serves. And often as not, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is her trusted ally.

For this healthful cereal has been adopted by countless women as the surest, easiest way to insure plenty of daily roughage, lacking in so many foods. And in safeguarding their families from constipation, they are responsible for their own happier homes. Constipation is the bane of thousands. It attacks health. Ruins youth. Saps energy. Too often it brings serious disease. And yet it is easy to prevent. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed.

Why ALL-BRAN is so effective

Bulk or roughage relieves constipation naturally. ALL-BRAN furnishes bulk in generous quantity because it is 100% bran. This bulk absorbs moisture and distributes it through the digestive system. Gently distending the intestines—exercising them—sweeping out wastes and poisons. In a part-bran product the amount of bulk is seldom sufficient to completely perform this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because they know that it is 100% bran and 100% effective.

Different from unnatural pills

ALL-BRAN works as nature works. How much better than habit-forming drugs whose dose must be constantly increased—and which sometimes injure the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an inviting cereal to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Sprinkle it into soups too. Use it in cooking—recipes on package. Mix it with other cereals. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. If you will serve it in some form regularly, you will surely protect your family from dread constipation.

For health's sake, be sure you get genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, cafeterias. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

TOWN TOPER DIES AND PUBLIC FLAGS GO TO HALF-MAST

New City, N. Y., Mourns for Man Who Spent 27 of His 57 Years in Jail.

By the Associated Press.

NEW CITY, N. Y., March 7.—Flags on public buildings here were at half staff today as residents mourned for Michael Whalen, the town toper, who spent 27 of his 54 years in jail. Whalen, at one time a prosperous contractor, was regarded with affection by the community despite his weakness for liquor, which once a year for 27 consecutive years brought him a one-year jail sentence. Just as regularly as he would be released Whalen would begin drinking again, and eventually go to the jail begging admittance.

Taken ill several days ago on a brief spell of freedom, he was sent to Good Samaritan Hospital. His only request was that he be allowed to die in the jail which he called "home," but in this he was disappointed, as he died yesterday at the hospital.

County officials immediately contributed $1000 for the funeral, and ordered that the Courthouse be closed today while he is buried.

Each Christmas for many years a special Christmas party was given for Whalen by the Rockland County officials, who regarded him as somewhat of a hero since some years ago he saved the jail from destruction by discovering a fire in the building and arousing the keeper.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT RETAINED AS DRY LAW PROSECUTOR

Proposed Transfer of Enforcement to Department of Justice Will Enlarge Her Powers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—It was said today at the Department of Justice that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition prosecutions, would be retained by the Hoover administration.

Mrs. Willebrandt attracted much attention during the presidential campaign and was sharply criticized by members of Congress because of her campaign activities.

Under the proposed plan to transfer the prohibition bureau from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice, Mrs. Willebrandt's duties would be increased. Instead of having only the prosecution of prohibition cases under her direction she would have an active part in directing the work of the bureau.

CIRCUIT JUDGE MULLOY KICKS
'FIXER' OUT OF HIS OFFICE

"Go Back to People Who Sent You," Jurist Tells Ambassador of Gamblers.

After rumors had circulated about Clayton courthouse that a "fixer" had been kicked out of Circuit Judge Mulloy's chambers, Judge Mulloy admitted he had had an unpleasant conference with a stranger before court opened today.

The man, whom he had never seen before, entered the Judge's chambers and suggested, "We could both make a little money if something could be done about the dog tracks and gambling places."

"I grabbed him by the shoulders, turned him around and pushed him out the door," Judge Mulloy related. "I told him, 'Go back to the people who sent you, whoever they are, and tell them you were thrown out of my office.'"

COOLIDGE SUPERVISES BRACING OF SAGGING FLOOR IN HIS HOME

Gives Each of the Workmen a Cigar When the Task Is Finished.

By the Associated Press.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 7.—One of Calvin Coolidge's first acts on returning home from Washington was to supervise the installation of strengthening supports under the floor of his living room. He had been in the house only a short time when he noticed that the floor sagged. He spent nearly an hour in the cellar of the house telling two workmen what he wanted and how it was to be done.

After the job was completed, he gave each workman a cigar.

FROZEN BODY OF MAN FOUND STANDING ON SNOWSHOES

Indians in Northern Ontario Say Body Stood With One Foot Slightly Advanced.

TORONTO, March 7.—Indian trappers returning from the headwaters of the Attawapiskia River, in Northern Ontario, told of finding the frozen body of a white man standing belt upright on snowshoes.

The Indians said the body stood with one foot slightly advanced as if about to take a step. It had been frozen solid and the snowshoes were firmly anchored in the slush ice.

There was nothing on the clothing or among the effects in a prospector's pack to identify the body, the Indians said. The body cannot be recovered until summer.

FISH IN SALT LAKE CITY STREETS

1200 Carp Freed in Gutters to Advertise Sportsmen's Meeting.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 7.—This city went fishing in the gutters yesterday and took around 1200 carp.

The fish, seized from Utah Lake, near here by the State Game and Fish Department, were loosed in the gutters, where water runs the year round, as a publicity stunt for a sportsmen's meeting. Small boys and men engaged in a mad scramble up and down the main street until all the fish had been captured.

Breaks
a Cold

There's a certain kind of tea that breaks up a cold in quick time. It beats doing yourself with all kinds of medicines. At the first sign of any chill or feverish feeling, get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Put a tablespoonful of this Hamburg Tea in a sieve, pour a cup of boiling water over it, and drink a cupful at any time. It heats the body, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold or case of gripe at once. Hamburg Breast Tea is inexpensive, and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

LOAN LAW SLUSH FUND
INQUIRY IS UNLIKELY

House Committee, However, Will Report Bill Regulating Practices.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 7.—There probably will be no investigation by the Legislature into the charges of slush funds in connection with small loan legislation as urged by three lawyers before the House Judiciary Committee hearing on small loan act modification bills Tuesday night.

The Judiciary Committee, however, indicated that it will act promptly to report to the committee substitute for the pending bills and will incorporate into the substitute the additional regulatory features proposed by Charles M. Hay, attorney for the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. It is also likely that the committee substitute will provide for a reduction of the interest rate from 3 1/4 to 2 per cent a month, or less.

A subcommittee to draft the substitute bill was selected by the Judiciary Committee yesterday. Members of the subcommittee are Representatives Nelson of Marion County, Baird of Jasper County, and Elvins of St. Louis County. Chairman McGee of Butler County, who has consistently opposed the present law authorizing an interest rate of 42 per cent a year, said prompt action would be taken to get the substitute bill before the House.

The Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence, which is considering small loan legislation, selected Senator Dearmont to draft a committee substitute for modification bills pending in the Senate. As an investigation, Chairman McGee of the House Judiciary Committee, said he did not believe it advisable for the Legislature to take up the functions of a grand jury. Legislators generally appeared to take little interest in the charges and it appeared unlikely that any investigating move would be launched.

N. SCOTT MAGRUDER CLEARED OF SAVINGS TRUST CHARGES

He Is Still Under Indictment, However, in Mound City Co. Banking Transaction.

Demurrers to all of four counts in an indictment charging N. Scott Magruder, former president of the Savings Trust Co., with misapplication of $8000 of the funds of the bank in September, 1927, were sustained yesterday by Federal Judge Davis.

Magruder is still under indictment charged with violations of the national banking laws in connection with his handling of funds of the Mound City Trust Co., of which he was president prior to his connection with the Savings Trust Co., and is expected to go to trial on these charges in April or May unless the Department of Justice decides to dismiss the case.

Two indictments were returned in the latter case and demurrers were sustained to all but two of 11 counts in these, leaving the Government's case against the bank president considerably weakened, according to prosecuting officials.

VERDICT FOR SURGEON IN SUIT
OF YOUNG WOMAN FOR $25,000

Jury Denies Miss Renna M. Sennert Damages Against Dr. H. S. McKay, Alleging Malpractice.

A jury in Circuit Judge Owsing's court yesterday returned a verdict in favor of Dr. Harvey S. McKay, with offices in the University Club Building, who had been sued by Miss Renna M. Sennert, 4614 South Compton avenue, for $25,000, charging that he had improperly placed a cast about her broken right ankle. As a result, she alleged, an insufficient flow of blood occurred and infection set in which necessitated the amputation of her foot above the ankle. Dr. McKay, supported by other medical testimony, testified the cast was properly placed and that the complications which developed were due to the serious nature of the broken ankle, which was compound fracture. Miss Sennert, who is 22 years old, was injured in August, 1927, when she fell in climbing over a fence at the Cleveland High School athletic field. Her dismembered foot, contained alcohol in a glass jar, was exhibited to the jury to show a condition that existed at the time of amputation, Sept. 13, 1927.

Will and Emil Carroll of Tuscola, Ill., Were Charged With Killing to Get $16,500 Insurance.

TUSCOLA, Ill., March 7.—Will and Emil Carroll were acquitted yesterday of the murder of Walter McAllister, their farm hand whom they were charged with killing to collect $16,500 life insurance. The jury was out three hours and a half after a trial lasting four weeks.

The brothers were accused of killing McAllister by a baseball bat and placing his body in an automobile which was stalled on railroad tracks in the path of a freight train.

GETS YEAR AND DAY,
STOLE U. S. TAX MONEY

Louis E. Burger Is Sentenced Despite Clemency Pleas
in His Behalf.

Louis E. Burger, 29 years old, former assistant cashier in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, was sentenced to a year and a day in the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., today when he pleaded guilty of the embezzlement of $2160 of Federal income tax money between June, 1925, and May, 1928.

Federal Judge Davis listened attentively to pleas for leniency but refused to grant the parole sought by Burger's attorney, William E. Bliese. It was shown that Burger's father, August Burger, an employee of the city street department for 32 years, had sold his home at 3302 Osage street to make restitution to the Government, that young Burger had a clean record before his detection, and that, in remorse, he had attempted to kill himself by gas.

The Judge, Dr. John H. Simon, the family physician, and an official of the International Harvester Co., where young Burger has been employed, added their voices to the lawyer's plea, but Assistant District Attorney Stettler insisted that Burger be punished as an example to others.

"I am much impressed with the fact that the gentlemen who came before the court in this case, did not first call at my office," Judge Davis said. "The court knows a great many people in the City of St. Louis from past association. Incidentally, the court has known Mr. August Burger for a great many years. It is a difficult thing to keep people from calling up the court's home or his office or stopping him on the street to talk about cases which are pending.

"I have tried to remain human. I have tried to keep my door open. Perhaps that has been a mistake. I have reached the point where I have got to become hard-boiled. I am not referring to the gentlemen in this case because they did not come to me except in this courtroom in this open session today.

"But I want to say this: If any of you people think that you can send anybody to the Judge's home or to his office to do something for you, you are mistaken and some of you are going to find it out before I finish calling this docket today." His last remarks were addressed to a courtroom well-filled with defendants and lawyers.

FORMER THEATER MEN BOUND OVER TO THE CIRCUIT COURT

Former Manager of Grand Opera House and Ex-Employee Give $1000 Bonds.

James Brennan, former manager of the Grand Opera House, and Lawrence Steuwer, an employee of the theater, who were arrested some time ago charged with embezzling $6500 from the theater, were bound over to the Circuit Court on bonds of $1000 each after a preliminary hearing before Judge Gayer, in the Court of Criminal Correction, yesterday.

Circuit Attorney Miller announced recently that theater officers had declined to prosecute the men, but said the State would carry on the prosecution. He attacked what he termed the practice of "using the Circuit Attorney's office as a collection agency."

One of the witnesses against the men yesterday was R. V. Quinby, present manager of the theater, who testified that examination of the books had showed a discrepancy.

WAR-TIME DISCOVERY WIDELY ACCEPTED AS MOST MODERN TREAT-MENT FOR COLDS

Daily more and more people are turning to Vapex for colds. There is no other to this method. No dosing. A drop on a handkerchief gives off a vapor which affords immediate relief. Vapex will stop a cold at the start.

The methods of using Vapex could hardly be more simple. The vapor from a drop on a handkerchief may be breathed as often as wished—the strength of one application lasts for at least eight hours. A drop of Vapex on the ends of your pillow keeps the head clear, and works while you sleep.

The almost unanimous approval with which Vapex has been received, the simplicity of its use, and its pleasant odor have caused it to be used daily by many persons as a means of keeping free from the many colds and epidemics prevalent. Vapex may be purchased at any drug store—one dollar the bottle containing 50 treatments. Insist on the genuine Vapex in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle. It may be expensive to experiment with an imitation. It is distributed by E. Fougere & Co., Inc., New York City.

High Blood Pressure

"Dizzy spells, hot flashes, pains in the head, shortness of breath, sleeplessness and nervousness usually indicate high blood pressure," warns physician who found treatment to reduce it.

These are symptoms which show an accumulation of poisonous waste matter in the system or that one or more of your organs has weakened and caused the heart to be overtaxed. Check it at once for it is known high blood pressure brings on hardening of the arteries, and other serious conditions.

CURTIS LIKELY TO BE FACTOR IN CABINET SESSIONS

Sitting In at Hoover's Request, Vice President Is Expected to Wield a Large Influence.

LONG EXPERIENCE TO AID PRESIDENT

Executive Gives Attention to Special Session, Law Enforcement, Patronage and Other Problems.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 7.—Vice President Curtis is likely to have a larger measure of participation in the affairs of Government during the Hoover administration than has any other man who has held the Vice Presidency in more than a generation.

President Hoover even before the election invited Curtis to sit in at Cabinet sessions and the invitation was promptly accepted. So it will be that the Vice President will be at the council table tomorrow at the first session of the Hoover Cabinet.

The practice of having the Vice President attend Cabinet meetings was initiated by the late President Harding when Calvin Coolidge held that office. Coolidge was unable to bring to the deliberations of Mr. Harding's advisers the vast fund of knowledge concerning the legislative branch of Government which Vice President Curtis possesses.

With but a single break, the former Senator has served in the two houses of Congress for more than 20 years and has been the Republican leader in the Senate since the death of Henry Cabot Lodge more than four years ago. Prior to that he had been the assistant leader for a number of years.

Few men on Capitol Hill are as well posted on Senate rules and procedure as is Curtis and few of them have as wide a circle of intimates among the members of Congress, irrespective of party lines.

To Have Wide Influence. Coming to the Cabinet sessions thus equipped, the Vice President will be able to give valuable advice on subjects which must be placed before Congress and he will be in a position to wield a considerable influence at the Capitol in the shaping of administration measures and in the handling of them on the floor of the Senate.

Those conversant with the situation would be surprised if his advice is not sought on legislative affairs alike by President Hoover and the leaders as well as the rank and file in the Senate.

Although he announced at the outset that he would not attend Cabinet sessions even if invited, former Vice President Davis did take a hand now and then in the framing and piloting of legislation in the Senate. It is an open secret that his activities on behalf of the McVey-Haughen bill created a breach between himself and President Coolidge.

After a visit of nearly half an hour with the President today, Vice President Curtis said there was no announcement to make. "It was just a nice family visit," he said, with a smile as he hurried from the executive offices to the Capitol.

Root Mission Discussed. The mission of Elihu Root overseas to seek acceptance of the American reservations to the world court by the other nations members of that tribunal was discussed with the President today by Senators Swanson of Virginia and Walsh of Montana, Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Both were ardent supporters of American adherence to the court protocol and they approved the efforts now being made to bring about American participation in the court's deliberations. They also expressed satisfaction with the President's pronouncement on this subject in his inaugural address.

Denial was made of a published report that Curtis D. Wilbur of California, former Secretary of the Navy, had been selected as a member of the national commission on general law enforcement. It was reiterated that no final selections had been made but some callers at the White House said they had an impression that Julius Rosenwald of Chicago might be one of those named.

"PORTLAND VASE" IN BRITISH MUSEUM TO BE PUT ON SALE

Urn Dating From First Century of Roman Empire Will Be Auctioned.

LONDON, March 7.—One of the world's most famous antiques, a Roman glass cinerary urn known as the "Portland vase," which has been on loan from the Portland family in the British Museum since 1810, will be offered for sale.

The vase, which is supposed to date from the first century of the Roman Empire, was bought in 1779 by England's representative in Rome, Sir William Hamilton, for 1000 guineas. He sold it to the Duchess of Portland. In 1845 a lunatic smashed it, but the pieces were so skillfully reassembled that there is hardly a trace of the breaks. Thereafter it was exhibited under guard in a special room of the museum.

Announcement that the vase would be sold came as a surprise to British antiquarians, classicists, art lovers and a considerable section of the general public. Unless it is bought for the nation it will be sold at auction in May.

The London press expresses the expectation that in the event it reaches the auction rooms it will be lost to Britain, because no one but an American millionaire can afford to purchase it.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL SIZES UP NEW JOB

W. D. Mitchell Thinks Hoover's Address Gave Department Its Platform.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—A slender, dapper man with a youthful face, who would rather shoot wild life with a motion picture camera than a rifle, emphasized today that the national prohibition law would be enforced.

"President Hoover's inaugural address should be platform enough for the Department of Justice," William D. Mitchell, the new Attorney-General, said. Then he smiled over the problems of the firm 24 hours in office and added:
"I have not had time to work out any scheme for handling the prohibition question."

Wiry and sparkling of eye, Mitchell has the look of a man who would much prefer to be tramping a pack trail in his hunting clothes than to be sitting at a desk in the nation's capital dressed immaculately.

Although he has not had time to decide on how best to handle prohibition, he did not hesitate to say that if he found the work of his department was increased, through the transfer of the prohibition bureau from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, he would ask for more funds to carry out the work.

Hoover wishes the Prohibition bureau to be placed under the supervision of the Department of Justice, it will mean an immense increase in the work of the department. The prospects of this, however, did not seem to worry the new Attorney-General in the least.

"I think we have interesting work cut out for us," he said, "I have faith that we can improve conditions. I will have to work out the problem to see whether we will need more funds and if the problem means an increase in work or personnel I will have to ask for more money."

Mitchell said he had not gone into the question of the personnel of his department but that something of the members of the staff had seized upon the change in administration as an opportunity to make a change in their occupation but that they had agreed to remain until he could get his staff organized.

Mitchell said he had given some thought to the work of the commission to investigate the administration of the criminal law by the Federal Courts and he believed it would result in improving conditions. This particularly applied, he said, to the congestion in the criminal court dockets.

But as the Attorney-General talked he toyed with a pile of pictures on his desk. They were photographs taken of him on a hunting trip in Alaska. Hunting is his favorite sport, though he prefers a camera now whereas he once preferred a gun.

U. S. Marine Shot in Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 7.
—Lieut. Ward W. Stevens of Eu-dora, La., suffered a flesh wound in the arm when he attempted to quell a disturbance among members of the Guardia Nacional and local authorities at Orointo. The Lieutenant, who is a corporal of marines, but holds a commission his pistol was taken and fired by a member of the mob. The clash arose over a disagreement as to authority to sign the working cards of laborers. It was reported that further trouble was threatened.

VALUE OF KELLOGG PACT MINIMIZED BY CHAMBERLAIN

British Foreign Minister Calls Treaty Just a Gesture, in Confidential Talk With 15 Correspondents.

HIS COMMENT LEAKS OUT AT GENEVA

Sir Austen's Ridicule of U. S. Compact Shocks
Diplomats at League of Nations Meeting.

By ALBIN E. JOHNSON,
Geneva Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

and Post-Dispatch.

GENEVA, March 7.—Whether the British Government is playing politics with the Kellogg treaty or whether Sir Austen Chamberlain is preparing to espouse an uncamouflaged materialistic policy, is the chief question heard in Geneva today as a result of the British Foreign Minister's "confessions" to British journalists in a heart-to-heart talk.

Following on the heels of President Hoover's inaugural address, in which the new President declared the Kellogg pact "should pave the way to greater limitation of armaments," and that Washington was prepared to lead the way, Chamberlain was speaking "confidentially" to about 15 British journalists. Asked by Wilson Harris, correspondent of the London Daily News, whether he thought the Kellogg pact would have a favorable influence on disarmament, he countered, "Do you?" and then proceeded to outline what he characterized as his personal views.

He said European disarmament would be least affected by Washington's maneuver. It was his belief, he intimated, that the Kellogg pact was merely an American gesture which could be regarded as peculiarly suitable by Americans alone.

Commenting on the effect recent ratifications of the Kellogg pact might have on disarmament, Chamberlain observed: "They're building 15 cruisers, aren't they?"

When it was suggested that outlawry of war increased national security, Chamberlain countered with the question: "Would the United States come over to Europe to enforce the pact should some signatory violate its pledges?"

Feeling the political significance of Chamberlain's statement, the British delegation's press adviser and his secretary pledged all the correspondents who had heard it to absolute secrecy. They also persuaded one correspondent who had wired the story to retract it.
But the talk was too explosive to be kept quiet. Details leaked out and the authenticity of the above version was verified by the correspondent through four different sources.

The remarkable thing is that the British Foreign Minister's observations are fundamentally sincere.
Some of his associates, however,
think he was extremely unpolitic and that his disclosures of the true Conservative attitude toward the Kellogg pact were most untimely.

BRITON DENIES RIDICULING PACT

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, March 7.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, in an interview with the Associated Press today, said he had always regarded the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war as one more barrier erected by international co-operation against war.

Discussing a recent private talk
he had had with British journalists, Chamberlain categorically denied that he had made any reflections against the Kellogg pact.

"Let me say definitely and explicitly that I said nothing to belittie the importance of the Kellogg pact," he said. "If I had done so, it would have been in contradiction with every public utterance I have made since the pact was proposed to us and would be directly contrary to the spirit in which both the British Government and the British people welcomed and supported Mr. Kellogg's initiative."

Agrees With Hoover.
"Since I spoke to the British press I have had an opportunity which I had not then of reading

dress and though our thoughts

ASSAILS $17,500 FOR LEGAL FEE ON WEBSTER PROJECT

George Barnett Quits as a Supervisor of Sewer District Over Agreement Urged by Associates.

ATTORNEYS OFFERED SERVICES GRATIS

Judge McElhinney Opposed Proposals, and Later Suggestion Fixing Pay at $70,000 Was Made.

George Barnett, a St. Louis attorney reading in Webster Groves, has resigned as a supervisor of the $2,000,000 Webster Groves Sewer District because he thinks his two associate supervisors have agreed to pay exorbitant fees for legal advice.

When a petition for incorporation of the district under the 1918 law, was submitted to Circuit Judge McElhinney at Clayton, attorneys who circulated the petitions assured the signers that if they were named as attorneys for the district they would serve without compensation. The following clause appeared in the caption of the petition:

"The attorneys whose names are signed to this petition have consented to act as attorneys for the district, either jointly or severally, if they shall be designated by the Board of Supervisors, without compensation for their services as such attorneys, and petitioners as that if an ordinance appointing a Board of Supervisors, that such order shall provide that the Board of Supervisors and the attorneys for the district shall receive no compensation as members of the Board of Supervisors or as attorneys."

The signatures were those of Roessel & Minton, Carter, Jones & Turney, and E. Glion Curtis.
Upon granting the petition, May 14, 1927, Judge McElhinney appointed each a member of the Board of Supervisors and he resigned as attorney.

Supervisors Pay $5 a Day.
The petition for incorporation also had stated that three members had agreed to serve as supervisors without pay, if appointed by the Court. These men were not selected by Judge McElhinney and he set the pay of members at $5 a day for each day they worked.
The law provides a maximum of $10 a day.

At the same time, attorneys for the district and members of the board say, Judge McElhinney declared that he was opposing a policy of permitting attorneys to serve without pay. Attorneys are selected and their compensation is fixed by the Board, under the terms of the 1918 law.

Robert A. Roessel and John R.
Turney, members of the two firms who filed the petition, were named as attorneys for the district, but no compensation was provided for because of Turney's opposition to accepting pay, in view of the promise of the petition.

Last November, a resolution was adopted unanimously by the board, that members of the Maine State Highway Commission have been asked to resign by Gov. Gardner as the result of the refusal of the United States Department of Agriculture to approve further Federal aid for roads in the State until the personnel of the commission was

Several thousand barrels of cement were omitted from road projects "with apparent intent to defraud the State and Federal Government," former Secretary of Agriculture Jardine said in a letter advising the Governor of the department's decision.

One member of the commission,
Edwin T. Clifford of Winthrop, submitted his resignation. Charles Murray of Bangor said he had taken the matter under consideration, and Clyde H. Smith of Skowhegan, chairman of the commission, was noncommittal.

Curtis later said that the proposed contract had been given him by Roessel in a rough form, the figures having been established by Roessel in an unofficial discussion of the subject with him.

Considered a Reasonable Fee.
Roessel readily stated that he was the author, and said that he considered $70,000 a reasonable fee. It was merely for the purpose of giving the board a suggestion upon which they might work, he said, explaining that he was willing to agree to any sum the board might determine. He felt, in view of Judge McElhinney's statement and the resolution of the board, that he should be paid a "reasonable fee." Turney was not considered, Roessel said.

CHURCHILL CRITICISES WILSON IN NEW BOOK OF WAR SERIES

"The Aftermath" Takes Statesman's History Down to Treaty of Locarno.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 7.—A critical analysis of the events immediately following the Armistice in 1918 and down to the treaty of Lo-carno is contained in "The Aftermath," written by Winston Churchill, now Chancellor of the Exchequer in the British Government.

The book, published today by Charles Scribner's Sons, brings Churchill's history of the World War and its consequences to within a few years of the present.
Starting on Armistice day, Churchill describes the perils of demoralization and the crises that arose when millions of men came back to their homes and hundreds of thousands of munition workers were thrown out of work.

Although willing to concede that President Wilson was actuated by the noblest motives, Churchill is severely critical of the war President at times. He asserts that from the beginning the President ought to have made common cause with Lloyd George and Clemenceau instead of consuming his own strength and their's in conflicts in which he was always worsted.

"He might have made everything swift and easy," Churchill writes.
"He made everything slower and more difficult."

40 REPORTED DEAD IN LANDSLIDE ON MADEIRA ISLAND

Occupants and Eleven Houses Swept Into Sea by Swollen Waters in Valley of St. Vincent.

By the Associated Press.
LISEON, March 7.—Latest news from Funchal, Madeira, estimates 40 persons are dead in the great landslide in the valley of St. Vincent, Madeira Island. Eleven houses were swept into the sea, says the Lisbon newspaper Seculo.

The landslides occurred at the village of Vargem in St. Vincent Parish, one of the most noted beauty spots in Madeira.

Help has been asked from Funchal but it is uncertain whether relief expeditions have been able to reach the scene in view of flooded roads and landslides elsewhere.

Vargem is perched on the mountainside above the Inferno River which has recently been flooded by heavy rains. Part of the village collapsed into the river, falling 80 feet into the swirling waters.

Houses and their inmates were swept into the Atlantic Ocean.
The mass of earth carried by the landslide momentarily dammed up the river. But the waters, piling up behind the barrier, suddenly broke through, carrying masses of rocks and earth, together with houses and persons, seaward.

Vargem is chiefly inhabited by farmers and fishermen.
The Madeira Islands lie off the coast of Morocco in the Atlantic Ocean. They are a province of Portugal and consist of the island of Madeira, a smaller island called Porto Santo and a little island named Deserta Grande. The population of the group is chiefly confined to the island of Madeira.

ITALIA DISASTER IS LAID TO PANIC ON PART OF CREW

Inquiry Shows Those on Board, Ignoring Noble, Opened Valves Wide,
Causing Airship to Crash.

LACK OF TRUST IN LEADER DISCLOSED

Commission Holds Him Responsible for Not Taking Trained Pilot and More Suitable Personnel.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and the New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Post and Pulitzer Publishing Co., the New York World
and Post-Dispatch.

ROME, March 7.—That the real cause of the disaster to the Noble airship Italia was a panic on board the dirigible, resulting from the crew's complete demoralization and lack of trust in the commander, was disclosed yesterday by the official commission which investigated the arctic tragedy and placed entire responsibility for the affair on Gen. Umberto Noble. The disclosure gives an entirely new picture of what happened to the ill-fated airship.

The inquiry brought out that when the Italia began to sink under the load of ice and snow that had accumulated on the envelop those on board, ignoring Noble and without waiting for orders, organ throwing out ballast and exactly shouting contradictory commands of their own. The result was that the dirigible, which had been dropping swiftly through the fog toward the Polar ice pack, suddenly began to rise again.

Hydrogen Valves Opened Wide.
More frightened than ever and still paying no more attention to Gen. Noble than if he had been one of their own number, the crew rushed to the hydrogen valves and opened them wide. Again that action was more effective than desired and the ship fell rapidly, crashing on the ice with results
well known to the world.

In charging Gen. Noble with bad judgment, the commission found him responsible for not picking a more homogeneous crew when he had an entirely free hand and insisted on assuming all responsibility for the expedition. The commissioners that he picked to accompany him on the Arctic venture were a mixture of Italians and foreigners, scientists, journalists, military, riggers and ordinary civilians. He was charged with failing to obtain a trained airship pilot although it was well known his own knowledge and experience in the handling of such a craft left much to be desired.

Noble, himself, was considered a good airship constructor but neither a pilot nor a navigator.

For a Greater St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In considering propositions for a greater St. Louis, the fundamentally important purpose should be to form all the various component communities into one wholesome political unit. A federation of independent communities will tend to continue rather than to avoid sectional conflicts. For a group of communities or a federation of communities to co-operate on matters of mutual benefit is not impossible in theory, but it has been found cumbersome and expensive, if not impracticable, in operation.

Many years ago, when Carondelet on the south and Baden on the north of St. Louis became completely merged with this city, these extreme north and south end communities were, from the standpoint of accessibility, farther away from St. Louis than is now St. Charles. At that time, horse-drawn vehicles and inferior roads made the journey from the center of St. Louis to either of these far-flung north and south end communities a matter of hours of travel. Yet they became, not because of independent legislative or administrative government, but integral parts of this city, united with it in a unitary form of government. And neither Carondelet nor Baden has lost individual identity, for even today these communities are known by their old names. The unitary form of city government for a community comprising therefore independent towns and making therefore no political unit has been an outstanding success as exemplified in St. Louis as compared with municipalities otherwise governed.

Why, therefore, should this idea of unitary political form not be adhered to in planning the Greater St. Louis to be established by uniting St. Louis County communities with the City of St. Louis?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I WAS passing last night through the midway at Union Station and I want to take this means of complimenting the superintendent at Union Station on the beautiful green lights in the midway naming the various substations—as baggage room, etc. From seeing so many dazzling colored lights in St. Louis and then to go to the station and see these restful green lights was indeed a treat and the superintendent should be congratulated on the great improvement in the signs in Union Station.

A TRAVELER.

For an Employees' Retirement Fund.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WAGE problems of city employees can be greatly relieved by establishing and operating an employees' retirement fund in St. Louis. The progressive State and municipal governments operate such a plan which is patterned after the successful U. S. Civil Service Retirement Fund.

Employment in any Government job is dependent upon the applicant's qualifications to meet requirements of the job which he is seeking. Standardization of U. S. Government wages is determined and based upon the supply and demand to meet the need of employees for jobs in the various departments.

Three to 5 per cent of each pay check is deducted and placed in the Civil Service Retirement Fund, where it draws 6 per cent compound interest. When a Civil Service employee is relieved or resigns, he will not be stranded without some ready cash to tide him over while he gets established in a new job. Civil Service employees are also entitled to medical treatments during any illness.

The people voted for the new charter to govern operation of the municipal government in St. Louis. The charter authorized the Efficiency Board, which has been established similar to the U. S. Civil Service plan. It will prove practical and economical to the city as well as to every employee. A city employees' retirement fund is established in St. Louis.

A Carl Schurz Dinner.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ON March 12, 1929, at 7 p. m., the Carl Schurz Centennial will take place at the Jefferson Hotel, and in view of the distinguished services which this American statesman, soldier, Cabinet member, advocate of the world peace, preservation of national resources and civil service reform, for so many years was identified with St. Louis journalism and so creditably represented the State of Missouri in the Senate of the United States, it should be a fitting celebration worthy of the great city in which he spent the best years of his life.

We, therefore, appeal to all public-spirited citizens to attend this celebration and to reserve some plates for the Carl Schurz Centennial and Banquet, March 12, 1929, at 7 p. m., at $2.50 per cover. Informal. Tickets can be procured at Witter's Book Store (Hans Ballin), 19 South Broadway. THE COMMITTEE.

WHEN THE PEOPLE AWAKE.

What shall be done with city governments is a question agitating the people of nearly all the cities. It is acute in two cities—Chicago and Philadelphia. After appalling scandals, mostly police, these cities are seriously considering the reorganization of their governments.

In Philadelphia, a citizens' committee of seventy, leading other reform associations, is urging the Pennsylvania Legislature to enact a law enabling the city to adopt the city manager plan. Reformers in Chicago have not decided what plan they want, but are pressing for a reorganization of the city government and a complete reorganization of the police system.

Reorganization of city governments may help but will not cure governmental evils in the cities. A city may get a better form of government. It may get a simpler and more business-like form and method of choosing public officers which will make it easier for the people to enforce their will. But under whatever form, the people are responsible for the character and efficiency of the city government. If the people themselves are not sufficiently interested in the character and efficiency of their government to go to the polls and cast their ballots for good candidates, both in the primaries and in the election, government under any form will be bad.

If the form of the government is not satisfactory, or makes it difficult for the people to enforce their will and makes it easy for public officers to play politics at the expense of public interest, the final responsibility for that rests with the people. They are not interested enough in bringing about a salutary change. They let things drift.

St. Louis has not been afflicted with the scandals of either Chicago or Philadelphia, but the people are not satisfied with their government. It is organized and conducted rather on a political than a business basis. It is so organized under the charter that the dominant party with rare exceptions controls all the political offices. There is no opposition in the municipal administration. There is no representative of any party except the dominant party in the municipal offices. The Mayor and the members of the Board of Aldermen are elected by the city at large and the Republican majority is so large in the whole city that it is practically impossible to elect any but a Republican to these offices.

The primary system does not work for the benefit of the city. The field is open for any man who for any reason wants to occupy an office to become a candidate. The field is open for any political boss or group of bosses to manipulate the primaries to advantage. As a rule, the candidate with the heaviest boss battalions behind him is nominated. Sometimes mere personal popularity, without solid qualifications, wins. Sometimes the party nomination depends upon trivial considerations. There is an increasing dearth of candidates of superior merit, because candidates of that type do not want to push themselves forward and engage in a double scramble for office. Sometimes the worst man wins.

At bottom, the trouble lies with the apathy of the people. Only in rare instances, under desperate circumstances, to avert the calamity of the election of some candidate notoriously and conspicuously unfit can the people be aroused. Under these circumstances leading men organize and undertake the campaign. But action of this kind is the exception not the rule. The rule is that nominations are made by the manipulation of bosses, and a few voters who go to the polls, and the election is carried by the dominant party.

The Post-Dispatch tried to arouse the people of St. Louis to the desirability of electing, in the existing crisis of growth and improvement in St. Louis, a citizen of superior character and capacity for the mayoralty. We need a strong, capable business man in that office. We need a strictly business and not a political administration. We hoped that the leading independents of both parties would join in an effort to obtain a candidate of that kind, but there was no response.

The municipal primary is taking its ordinary course. The campaign is a scramble of five men for the nominations. It is estimated that 148,000 votes will be cast in the Democratic primary. There is no estimate of the Democratic vote. But in the municipal primary of 1925, 41,196 Democratic votes were cast. If these estimates of the vote in tomorrow's primaries are correct, only 20,000 more than 50 per cent of the total number of registered votes will be cast.

The indications are that the Republican nominee will be the Mayor. The Post-Dispatch poll shows that the race will be close between Kiel and Miller, and the winning candidate will receive a little more than 50 per cent of the 143,000 in the Republican vote. In other words, a few votes over 71,000, out of a total registered vote of 358,000, will choose the next Mayor of St. Louis.

The winning Democratic candidate will be nominated by a handful of votes. Unless something unusual happens in the election campaign to change votes from one party to another, the Republican nominee will be elected. Probably popular indifference will rule in the election as in the primary, and a percentage of the registered vote will affirm the candidate nominated by about one-fifth of the voters.

The political machine will run the City Hall as usual, and the people of St. Louis will get what the politicians hand out to them. This sort of government will prevail until the people awake and take possession of their government.

Mr. Coolidge is glad to be free from the tyranny of an alarm clock. He can now pound his ear in his Northampton flat while his successor pounds the beaten highway of fame.

AN AIRPORT ACT.

A bill authorizing Missouri cities of the fourth class to vote bonds for the construction of airports, or aviation landing fields, has passed the House.

An abundance of landing facilities is indispensable to commercial aviation on the scale which public imagination and faith are expecting. We are moving along to that desired condition. There are now in the United States 1200 formal airports and landing fields, properly lighted and marked, and 900 more are in prospect. California leads, with 143; Texas has 101, Pennsylvania 83, Ohio 62, Illinois 60, Oklahoma 46, New York 43, Iowa 38. Those figures are taken from the magazine Time.

Missouri is not included in that roll of honor. It will be, as it should be, if the Senate joins with the House in passing this enabling act.

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S VICTORY.

It became obvious upon the eve of the stockholders' meeting which occurred today that the power of Col. Robert W. Stewart over the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana had ended.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller Jr. won. It was necessary to the morals of business that he should win. What Col. Stewart and his associates did has had many apologists, but no one has ventured to say that any corporation, either through its officers or its stockholders, could put its sanction upon it. That was the impossible postulate of Col. Stewart in his battle with Mr. Rockefeller. He proposed to show by a majority vote of the stockholders that what he did in the matter of the Continental Trading Co. deal was legitimate. It was not legitimate, and the stockholders have said so. It was ridiculous to say, as one of them did say, that so long as the corporation declares rich dividends the stockholders are not concerned about its methods. If that were true it could not be long until stockholders would be fixing the amount of money the officers of a corporation might make by exploiting the company, which would be absurd.

Col. Stewart ceases to be chairman of the board of directors of Standard Oil of Indiana, a position which paid a salary of $125,000 a year. He imagined that he could beat the moral point, but he could not. He was perhaps emboldened in that view by the success with which Doheny and Sinclair had overcome the Government in its efforts to prosecute them. They are all part of an oligarchy which has believed itself omnipotent. Amazed as it was by the Sinclair case, the country was still unprepared for the effrontery of Stewart. It owes Mr. Rockefeller a debt of gratitude for lifting his powerful hand against so sinister an attempt to make dishonesty in business ethical. What he has done ought to have a lasting and salutary effect upon business standards in the United States. The Post-Dispatch congratulates him.

FAVORITISM IN PUBLIC BUSINESS.

The local Surety Underwriters Association, in a formal resolution, brings a serious complaint against the Miller administration. The association charges that the administration has "entirely stifled competition in the writing of surety business, where public enterprises are involved." The resolution asserts that "political influence and pressure" give a monopoly of the bonding business for bonds of officers and contractors to one favorite agent. Public officers and contractors feel impelled to obtain bonds from one company alone.

The favored company referred to is the Southern Surety Co., with which Mayor Miller was at one time closely connected and which is headed here by Lon W. Harlow, collector of the Mayor's campaign fund from contractors.

Favoritism in public business is wrong in principle and vicious in practice. It invariably tends to promote graft and waste. It works for private, not public, interest.

Both United States Senators from Missouri were present when ex-Governor Hyde took the oath as Secretary of Agriculture in Mr. Hoover's Cabinet. It must have been a great rally of dirt farmers.

THE POST-DISPATCH POLL.

According to the Post-Dispatch poll, the finals in the mayoralty race are to be run between Mayor Miller and Mr. McDaniel.

Other candidates upon both sides will be slow to believe that this is a means of forecasting primary returns, but that is because of their inexperience with polls. We had a quite lasting experience in the recent presidential race. The Literary Digest poll showed from the outset that Mr. Hoover would carry almost every state in the union. That seemed to us ridiculous. The most astute political judges in some of the states said it was ridiculous. Yet when the election was held we learned that was even so—he was elected by an enormous plurality.

A poll of the sort that cuts across all lines and is therefore a true segment of public opinion is one of the uncanniest things of our time. It makes one wonder why such a segment of the people could not do the voting and save the rest of us the time and the trouble.

It's a wise depositor who knows his own bank these days.

THIS FABULOUS WORLD.

Yesterday Bankers' Trust Co. stock jumped $365 to $1875 a share, which reminds us that last week—on March 1 to be exact—stock of the First National Bank of New York soared $600 to $7100 a share. It is said a three-day rise in First National stock netted George Fisher Baker, its 83-year-old chairman, a profit of $31,000,000. Watkins, the smelling salts!

THE STUFF OF SCIENTISTS.

Herpetology—the study of reptiles—is an accepted and accredited science, and Moody J. R. Lentz, assistant herpetologist at the St. Louis Zoo, is of the stuff of scientists.

He resigned from the zoo to enter his father-in-law's printing business in Arkansas. Then, on the day the resignation was to take effect, Marlin Perkins, chief herpetologist and superintendent of reptiles, was bitten by the deadly Gabun viper. Lentz stayed on at the reptile house, and when, after three or four days, it became apparent that Perkins would recover from the bite, Lentz agreed to remain until his chief was able to work again.

Perkins returned to duty and Lentz departed. His small salary—and by other standards, the zoo salaries are exceedingly small—was a thing of the past. Herpetology had lost an able and enthusiastic workman, and printing had gained a willing, though inexperienced salesman. Yesterday Lentz came back to the zoo. "I've worked with snakes too long," he said. "I couldn't stand the printing business after that."

So, in the past, has many another scientist abandoned the pursuit of wealth to search scientific facts that will add to the world's knowledge, but will yield little or nothing to the discoverer except satisfaction.

The weather is spring-like, but the ground hogs sleeps. His extra six weeks of winter will be up March 13, and meanwhile no deception can beguile him.

ANOTHER REASON FOR LAWLESSNESS.

Why American Women Do Not Make History

They have achieved much, but they lag far behind their Old World sisters in real influence; this is because American men place business first, while men in older civilizations seek wealth, fame and glory to lay them at women's feet; hence Marguerite Sarfatti, Latifa Hanoum, Madame Weiss, Soume Cheng, for whom we have no counterparts.

LADY DRUMMOND HAY IN THE SPHERE (London)

AMERICAN men, especially in their younger years, are romantic—romantic in the best sense of the word. They marry more often for love than men do and can in Europe. But once married it seems to me comes "business first." Success in life, meaning the accumulation of wealth in most cases, is the main goal of the American man. Love is subordinated to the great ambition. In England, Europe, and even in the East, love is often the inspiration—the stepping-stone—to success. The woman, not the success itself, is the goal.

Gen. Primo de Rivera, dictator of Spain, with power, wealth, 72 titles, cried "What is the use of position, power, wealth, fame, glory, if not to lay at a woman's feet?" When by moonlight in ancient Agra I gazed on the unearthly beauty of the Taj Mahal, tomb of the Empress Arjmand, the most perfect monument in all the world, I could not help comparing the roles of the women of the East, Europe and America. European and oriental women have tremendous power; they use, or abuse, colossal influence beyond that in the hands of the American woman of today.

Woman in politics does not play the epoch-making role which she can and does in Europe.

I was astonished at, and in sincere admiration before, the average American girl and woman who takes a far keener and far shrewder interest in home politics than her English sister, for instance. Practically every American woman I talked to was an able and articulate politician. We have fewer feminine politicians, but more female diplomats. The general run of women in Europe—note that I excluded the East, where every woman thinking individual is a born politician—does not include an important proportion of thoughtful politicians such as I found in America.

What we have, though, are very many feminine history-makers, outstanding women who wield political, diplomatic and national power, such as America has not yet produced in the course of her history. To cite historic examples would be unfair. The history of America is short compared with that of the almost ageless East, and thousands of years-old Europe. But in contemporary history—the annals of today—where is the American Rodin, Forbes, wonder and explorer; a Lady Dorothy Mills, traveler and writer; a Lady Heath, universally known aviatrix, and her sister bird-woman, Lady Bailey? I realize, and had the opportunity of appreciating the worth and standing of the American woman, that she is one of the brilliant examples whose name will go down in history, but Europe and the East can boast names who have made, and are making history.

America has not given the world a Marguerite Sarfatti, the Italian woman who inspired Mussolini, the savior of Italy, one of the giants of the age who found his comrade and confidant in a woman.

an Egypt, land of the Sphinx, land of veiled harem, and seclusion, can boast a Hoda Charoul, whose name rings for emancipation, political power, and diplomatic influence the world over. King Fuad told me not so long ago that "The women of the East make or unmake oriental nations." The Oriental was in the past and still is today, very much in the hands of his women in matters political.

China, where until a few short years ago, bound feet, strict confinement, and multiplicity of wives was the order of the day, has produced Miss Soume Cheng—official ambassador invested with full diplomatic powers to negotiate with great nations on behalf of her country of 487,000,000 people. Madame Kollontai of Russia, accredited ambassador to several foreign countries, is a product of the Soviet regime. A dear friend of mine, Frau Olga Rudel-Zornel, is President of the Senate in Vienna; a woman President of the Austrian Senate! Frau Katherine von Oheimb-Kardorff—"Kutinka" to the Germans, has wielded political power beyond the dreams of the majority of men. She has had many a be-ringed finger in the pie of German politics. Frau Stresemann, the wife of the famous German Foreign Minister, is another recognized political factor of importance. Frau Antonia Valentini, editress of the popular publication, Nord und Sud, adds to the list of German women not inseparable from the international activities of new Germany.

WE in Europe, expect to find a woman behind a great man, behind a policy or motive. The woman may be the man's mother, as was the case somewhat with President Hindenburg of Austria; she may be his wife, as with Mustafa Pasha Kemal the Ghazi-conqueror of Turkey, who found himself obliged to divorce Latifa Hanoum because of her alleged political activity which did not always coincide with his aims; she may be a Sarfatti, a Lady Astor, who, though American by birth, developed her political personality and achieved world-wide recognition in Europe. We have our feminine giants of industry and the press—Lady Rhonda for instance.

America has also her full meed of feminine influence in literature, art, industry, and commerce; of that there is no doubt. But rich as she is in personalities seething with individualism, the new world has not thrown up the great outstanding women personalities against the horizon of civilization that we have done in the old world.

Madame Weiss of France is only one of a great number of women who today hold political salons in Paris after the style of Empire days. The diplomatic sultan Chercher la Femme applies to every international complication ever known.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

REP. EDWARD T. TAYLOR has again declared war on what he considers one of the greatest outrages in the United States—this thing of charging a visitor to Washington 25 cents to be shown through the National Capitol Building.

For many years the Coloradoan's votes have been heard in opposition to the fee system practiced by the guides. His idea is that the person who comes to Washington and desires to see the Capitol should be able to do so and have some one explain the different things of interest free of charge. He believes that charging a quarter to show a taxpayer something his money helped buy is not only outrageous, but unparliamentary.

There are seven women and 17 men guides. They rely solely on their fees for pay. Last year the average income for each was around $100.

Taylor has encountered stiff opposition in his fight. There are those who contend that the services of guides are wanted by the public, that it is a matter left entirely to the visitor whether or not he wants one, and that it is not in any sense to be regarded as an entrance fee to the Capitol.

THE Hoover forces apparently have made good the first promise of the presidential campaign. Certainly evidence points that way.

One of the most active workers for the Hoover-Curtis ticket in the campaign was Mrs. Jimmy Curtis, a woman socially prominent in Washington. She excited the admiration of every one by her tireless energy on behalf of the two Republican candidates day and night she worked, casting aside all social obligations, and concentrating only on the campaign.

One of her friends became curious to know why Mrs. Curtis was working so hard for the election of Hoover. One day she was bold enough to ask point-blank: "Laura, what are you expecting from Hoover, if he is elected, for all this work you are doing?"

"I'll be perfectly satisfied if I get a no-parking sign in front of my home."

Well, whether it is significant or not, today in front of the handsome Curtis residence there is a no-parking sign.

ROBERT HOUSE. By Russell Neale. (Harpers.)

THERE was a time when certain high-class publishing houses could be depended upon to publish only books of a quality to command any fair-minded reader's respect at least. There would be differences of opinion, naturally, in keeping with variations in temperament and taste; but one could depend upon it, such houses did not publish utter drivel.

There are still publishing houses of this old-fashioned sort, and certainly Harpers counts among them. As a rule, one can still depend upon this distinguished old firm for a certain level of excellence in its books. But if it persists in allowing one of the office boys to pass on the availability of manuscripts—which seems to have been the case with "Hobby House"—there will soon be one less light-house in our contemporary fog.

"Hobby House," regarded either as literature or as a mere yarn, is almost too bad to be true—and that is saying a very great deal just now. The book is, in every way, preposterously apocryphal. Not a character in it is in the least convincing, and the story the author undertakes to tell is astonishing in its childishness. Yet we are assured in the blur, written no doubt by the same office boy who composed the manuscript, that the author's style is "as robust and original as that of Jim Tully (1)" and that "this first novel is a truly remarkable performance."

One cannot blame an office boy for coming to this conclusion, for there is a powerful persuasion abroad to the effect that if one chooses to write about people who are utterly ignorant, dirty and disgusting, one is certainly a great genius—especially if one can prove that his education has been quite neglected, that he has served his literary apprenticeship as a hobo or as a very low-type laborer, and is proficient in the use of "strong," "virile" and "strikingly original" language; that is to say, the language of the gutter.

In "Hobby House" the author is said to have made known "an entirely new section of country and a type of family that has never before appeared in fiction"—and nowhere else, as described. The country is that of the upper Ohio River—which has been on the map for some time. The family Harpers is a shanty boss, extra quantities

BOBBY HOUSE. By Russell (Harper's).

There was a time when certain high-class publishing houses could be depended upon to issue only books of a quality to command any fair-minded reader's respect at least. There would be respect of opinion, naturally, in dealing with variations in temperament and taste; but one could depend upon it, such houses did not publish inferior work.

There are still publishing houses of old-fashioned sort, and certainly Harper's ought to be one of them. As a rule, one can still depend upon this distinguished old firm for a certain level of excellence in its books. But it is peculiar in allowing one of the office boys to pass on the availability of manuscripts—which seems to have been the case with "Bobby House"—that it is a very great deal better than the rest.

The book is, in every way, preposterously sophomoric. Not a character in it is in the least convincing, and the story the author undertakes to tell is astonishing in its childishness. Yet we are surprised in the blurb, written no doubt by the same office boy who passed on the manuscript, that the author's style is "as robust and that is saying a very great deal."

One cannot blame an office boy for coming to this conclusion, for there is a powerful personality abroad in the effect that it one chooses to write about people who are utterly ignorant, dirty and disgusting because they are ignorant, dirty and disgusting, especially if one can prove that his education has been quite neglected, that he has served his literary apprenticeship as a hobo or as a very lowly laborer, and is proficient in the use of "strong," "virile," and "starkly original" language—that is to say, the language of the gutter.

"Bobby House" the author is said to have made known "an entirely new section of country and a type of family that has never before appeared in fiction"—and nowhere else, as described. The family is that of the upper Ohio River—which has been on the map for some time. The family lives in a shanty boat, eats quantities of sardines and smells powerfully thereof, blows its nose frequently, and lives on good terms with its domesticated lice.

Many years ago "Mrs. Wiggs" made the smell of cabbage popular with fiction writers, and for years and years that stale odor haunted the highways and byways of this, our republic of letters. Is it going to be sardines next?

MEMOIRS OF A FOX-HUNTING MAN. By Siegfried Sassoon. (Coward-McCann, Inc.)

Might as well have been entitled "Memoirs of a Well-to-do Idle Youth." With a comfortable six hundred pounds a year, living with an aunt who pets and gives him his every wish, this young English gentleman follows the hounds through about 500 pages, when the war breaks out. We then have three or four chapters of the opening of his adventures in Flanders, where it seems his usual easy fortune follows him while others, including the groom who had made him a capable fox hunter, suffer death. The story is, as the London Times reviewer is quoted as saying, "the least of the book, simple, cool and telling," but how the publishers can assert that it has "swept London off its feet" is puzzling, unless London readers find such reading restful in contrast with their rushing, nerve-racking city life.

H. M. W. THE SCANDAL OF CHRISTIANITY. By Peter Ainslie. (Willett, Clark & Colby.)

The "scandal" here discussed is denominationalism, the so-called church, and all worshipping the same God," asks Dr. Ainslie. Assuming the vantage point of a more enlightened age to come, he undertakes to give an answer. It is his belief that "denominationalism must go as human slavery has gone, as ignorance among the masses is going, as every other unjust thing must go, and be so absorbed in its going that it will not attempt re-establishment."

There is no denominational organization in the world that can be said to be spiritual or Christian," Dr. Ainslie grants, however, that "there have been and are Christians in the various denominations."

Value of Actress' Estate Less Than Half of Amount Expected.

NEW YORK, March 7.—The estate of Amelia Bingham, actress who was supposed to have left $100,000 when she died in 1927, actually was worth almost nothing beyond the value of her famous "House of Statues," on Riverside Drive. The transfer of the property just filed lists the net estate at $41,042, of which $25,623 was the value of the house, which before she owned it was the home of the actor Joseph Jefferson.

Aside from a few small bequests the estate went to two sisters, Mino Leslie of Portland, Ore., and Clara Hartley of Hicksville, O., each of whom got $19,257. The Bingham home, a small cottage with the facade almost covered with life sized statues, was sold after her death.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 7.

ALL street is the most highly sensitized area in the world. The slightest quiver is felt in San Francisco a second later, but despite the tension it has the precision of a splendidly geared watch. Even the skilled operators do not grasp its organized coherency.

The shrewdest of traders cannot explain the mysterious movements which result in such sudden turmoil as was revealed lately. Nor can they check them, as was evidenced by the experience of the deft manipulator, W. C. Durant, who once lost $2,000,000 in a day. Wisdom and blind stupidity often play equally important roles.

A silly rumor whispered in an uptown club has been known to prostrate the street 10 minutes later. The public which looks on from the side lines regards it all as a daily madness of human gossamer leaping about in meaningless confusion and apparently getting nowhere.

From time the exchange opens at 10 o'clock until the gong rings for closing, the trading floor shimmers in a wave of hysteria. Men run around in circles, often pulling their hair, screaming and laughing hysterically. And now and then one sneaks off to end it all.

Wall street is a daily example of how much strain the nervous system can stand. In time the great excitement seems a tonic instead of a toxic. Men will leave the floor in the afternoon with the cataclysmal pallor of some malignancy, and return after a night's sleep as fresh as the proverbial daisy.

This may go on for years, and the only permanent physical effect seems to be what is known as "the trader's look." The lowliest clerk can spot the professional instantly. By its features have been whetted to a cunning sharpness and his eyes have a feverish brightness. The street "got him."

A NEW pulpit has come to Wall street since the passing of "The Bishop of Wall Street," a kindly man in clerical robes who, mounted his portable rostrum daily to deliver a sermon to the luncheon crowds. His successor is a Negro who takes his stand across from the Morgan building and passes out the daily spiritual dose.

THE Lambs—No one calls it the Lambs Club—is in its fifty-fourth year, and despite its pretentious quarters in Forty-fourth street may have a new clubhouse soon. The club was the outgrowth of a little supper party at downtown Delmonico's in 1874. It was so pleasant an organization was effected to perpetuate the idea. London had the original Lambs Club. The name, the legend goes, was bestowed by a congenial crowd of actors who, after a pleasant dinner, would say: "Let's go over to the Lambs", meaning the hospitable home of Charles and Mary Lamb.

BROADWAY'S increasing number of doughnut shops has inspired a war to call it "The Great East Way." That's not much of a wheeze, but there may be some feeble-minded reader who will care for it.

NEW YORK'S newest medical center, jutting skyward from the upper reaches of Riverside drive, is the largest experiment of its kind the world has ever known. The massed group of towering skyscrapers stretches for many blocks and contains beds for 117 and was built at an expense of $25,000,000. It is the co-ordination of more than a dozen hospitals, thus permitting each to retain its individual identity. Over the entrance reads: "For the poor of New York, without regard to race, creed or color, and supported by voluntary contributions."

A FEATURE of the Medical Center is the operating amphitheater seating 149 spectators, each seat equipped with a telephone enabling the occupant—pardon the shudder—to listen to the heartbeat of the patient.

SOCIAL ITEMS

MRS. AND MRS. THEODORE MORENO of Brentwood will have as their guests for the remainder of the week Mrs. Moreno's mother, Mrs. J. H. Broughton of Hannibal, Mo., and the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. K. Brennan, who will arrive today. Dr. and Mrs. Brennan are former St. Louisans. For several years he was rector of St. Mark's Church.

Mrs. and Mrs. Moreno and their daughter, Miss Harriet Moreno, returned a few days ago from a month's visit in the Southern resorts. They divided their time between Miami, Nassau, Havana and Hollywood. On their way from Havana they landed in Key West where they remained for a few days, and ended their visit at St. Petersburg.

Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, 39 Portland place, who was in Florida for several weeks, made the Nassau trip with the Moreno family. Returning on the same train with Mr. and Mrs. Moreno and their daughter was Mrs. Robert Brown of St. Louis County. She accompanied Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Keller of the Chase apartments on their trip to Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Keller are now visiting in Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCulloch, 4394 Westminster place, returned home yesterday from an interesting trip to the Southern resorts. They spent the season in Miami Beach, Fla., later going to Havana for a week. Before returning to St. Louis Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch toured Florida by motor, and returned home by way of New Orleans.

Their daughter, Miss Mary Sue McCulloch, will be home next Wednesday from the Westover School in Connecticut, for her spring vacation. Returning with her will be Miss Edwin Nugent, daughter of Mrs. Edwin T. Nugent, 5228 Westminster place, and Miss Louise McCluney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney, 17 Kingsbury place. A fourth St. Louis girl attending Westover is Miss Jacqueline Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, who will spend her vacation in the East.

Dr. and Mrs. Willard Bartlett, 15 Westmoreland place, who have spent the winter in Honolulu, landed yesterday in San Francisco, and will return to St. Louis March 15. Miss Marian Bluschoff, debutante

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. M. Bain, 2811 Flora boulevard, will leave St. Louis tomorrow for New Orleans to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Adams, for several weeks. Mrs. Adams was Miss Marguerite Bain. Mr. and Mrs. Adams will make their home in Galveston, Tex., after June 1 and have purchased a home there.

Mrs. Francis H. Niles, 894 Lake avenue, and her cousin, Mrs. C. Bruce Head and Mr. Head of the Chester Apartments, are spending a fortnight in the South. They motored from St. Louis to New Orleans for a visit of a few days and will spend some time at Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss., before returning home.

BEAUTY ADVICE FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST AUTHORITIES

Andrés Salon de Beauty

Beauty advisor to fashionable St. Louis joins with Fontaine of Brussels in urging this famous 2-minute complexion treatment

"One thing I recommend to all; thorough daily cleansing with Palmolive Soap. I agree with Fontaine of Brussels, that the clean skin is the only true basis of beauty."

ANDRÉS
SALON DE BEAUTY, INC.

BEAUTY advice, here in St. Louis, as in Paris, or Vienna, is based on scientific knowledge and common-sense rules.

And here are experts, whose advice on skin care agrees in at least one major respect with the greatest authorities the world knows on beauty Go to Fontaine in Brussels, Cavaliere in Paris—to Pessl in Vienna—and they will recommend this same home beauty treatment.

Daily cleansing urged

No matter what special creams or lotions they use, all unite in urging "foundation cleansing"—a thoroughly cleansed skin as the first step in beauty culture. And they will add: "The lather of Palmolive Soap, blending the famed oils of olive and palm, gently rid the pores of dirt and oils, of old make-up, rouge and powder. Its daily use brings real beauty."

To the smart shop of Fontaine in Brussels, which has the appointment of Her Majesty the Queen of the Belgians, ladies of the court and nobility go. For Fontaine's beauty advice is indisputably effective.

"The first care of a beauty specialist," says M. Fontaine, "is to see that the skin is in a condition to respond to treatment in the salon. If the pores are allowed to remain clogged up with particles of powder, rouge, fine dust, etc., delicate tissues must suffer."

In urging "foundation cleansing," M. Fontaine says: "Palm and olive oils are the first natural skin cleansers available; and it is a mistake to suppose that the same deep thorough cleansing can be got by other means. In my experience, the one soap to use is Palmolive."

The famous 2-minute treatment

Wherever you go, in this country or abroad, Palmolive is universally recommended for beauty specialists by the thousand emphasize the importance of M. Fontaine's words of wisdom.

"A reputation such as Andrés Salon de Beauty has achieved takes years," says M. Andrés, whose smart salon is shown above.

"My present clientele, which includes the most exclusive society women of St. Louis, was won only by the overwhelming superiority of my treatments."

"One thing I recommend to all; thorough daily cleansing with Palmolive Soap. I agree with Fontaine of Brussels that the clean skin is the only true basis of beauty."

"And to achieve gently, the cleanliness necessary, one uses the unguent oils of olive and palm. Palmolive Soap with its rich creamy lather, entirely fills my specifications for a soap."

Here is the famed 2-minute complexion treatment employed by women who value skin loveliness. Do this each morning, and each night at bedtime:

"With your two hands make a rich lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. For two minutes massage this well into the skin. Then rinse gradually, chilling the water to icy temperature."

Beauty-wise women, the world over, have acclaimed Palmolive, as have the beauty experts who advise them. In France it is one of the two largest selling soaps. In 48 countries it is the leader, as in America. To "keep that schoolgirl complexion," world beauty experts tell you, use Palmolive daily.

A perfect formula embodying the benefits of palm and olive oils since the days of Cleopatra for prolonging youth and beauty.

VALUE OF KELLOGG PACT MINIMIZED

ent language. I discover no great difference between what the President said and what I said to the press here.

"I have always regarded the Kellogg pact as one more barrier erected by international co-operation against war. It comes to confirm and fortify agreements already taken under other auspices by many nations. It is common ground to us all that these engagements, valuable as they are for the maintenance of peace, are not absolute guarantees against war."

"Peace, said the President, will become a reality only through self-restraint and active effort in friendliness and helpfulness. It is to such a change in international outlook and in the standards in international relations that I, like the President, look to make real and solid the improved conditions which already reign among us."

Chamberlain then referred directly to his interview with the British correspondents.

Cites Aids to Peace.
"The question which was put to me the other day," he said, "was whether I expected the Kellogg pact to have immediate and large effect on the progress of disarmament. As to this, it would be dangerous to be too sanguine."

"President Hoover himself in the passage from which I have already quoted that peace can be promoted by limitation of armaments and by the creation of instrumentalities for the peaceful settlement of controversies. I agree with this statement. Each new affirmation of the sanctity of peace and of the obligation of each of us to maintain it helps forward the discussion of disarmament as having regard to the difficulties which we have already experienced."

"In spite of the desire for disarmament which is common to us all, it would, I think, be rash for anyone in the position as responsible as my own to pretend that a single act, however important, had brought us to a solution of all our troubles."

PRODUCTION OF COMMERCIAL PLANES UP 140 PCT. IN YEAR
Yearbook Says 5000 Ships and 3500 Motors Were Built in U. S. in 1928.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 7.—Aircraft Yearbook figures released today by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America show an increase of 140 per cent in commercial aircraft production in 1928. Approximately 5000 planes and 3500 aircraft motors were built in the United States last year, with a valuation of more than $75,000,000. Of these, 3780 were commercial ships and 2087 were commercial motors, the rest being for military use.

In the commercial field, biplanes outnumbered monoplanes two to one, but the valuation of the monoplanes was greater. This is explained by the increasing use of biplanes for small open cockpit ships and of monoplanes for larger cabin craft.

For recognition as center of aircraft production or operation the chamber names Boston, Springfield, New York, Baltimore, Miami, Scranton, Pittsburgh, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Dallas, Houston, Los Angeles and Seattle.

OF AIRPORT COSTS

Says Flying Field Can Be

HOPES FOR REVENUE FROM CONCESSIONS

Aviation Enthusiast Asserts Commercial Concerns
Will Be Willing to Pay
Well for Facilities.

The question of costs, operation and revenue in connection with the $2,000,000 municipal airport are business questions requiring careful analysis by civic and business leaders of the city, declared Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, dean of St. Louis aviation enthusiasts, in an address over Radio Station WLL last night.

"It has been pointed out to the various city departments concerned that the airport can be placed on a revenue-producing basis to cover the cost of operation and maintenance. However, to accomplish this, a definite policy of finance, based on a definite plan of cost and construction, must be studied and worked out now and immediately put in force," Lambert said. "The $2,000,000 airport bond issue, if on a 4 1/2 per cent basis and extinguished through sinking fund over a period of 20 years, will cost the citizens of St. Louis a minimum average sum of $145,000 a year. Every citizen of St. Louis will contribute to this cost, either in direct taxation or as an indirect taxpayer. More than that, unless the airport is put on a revenue-producing basis, its annual cost of maintenance will be an additional charge on our already overburdened city funds.

"Other cities, failing to take this into consideration, now are confronted with heavy costs of operation and the difficulty of providing such costs through the medium of city legislation. These cities now are trying to retrieve the situation—not an easy accomplishment."

"The city administration will find the air transportation companies and flying schools operating at the airport more than willing to be adequately charged for the facilities offered, because it means to them greater efficiency in their business. About 75 per cent of the building program can be made to produce revenue through concessions and leases sufficient to pay the interest charges on the capital invested and cost of maintenance.

"The air service units, calling for a building program of about $130,000, all belonging to the city, will bring to the community about $75,000 a year in Federal payrolls. The gasoline and oil concession is lucrative and other concessions, including restaurant, will return revenue.

"At Detroit a committee of aviation experts was appointed by the City Council to study these matters. One of the recommendations of the committee was that one large central hangar, costing $1,100,000, be constructed, pointing out that revenue from the hangar would pay the construction costs. We can do the same sort of thing here."

COL. LINDBERGH REGAINS
USE OF HIS RIGHT ARM

Reports Denied That Invitations to Wedding Had Been Sent to U.
S. in Secret Code.

MEXICO CITY, March 7.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had the use of his right arm today for the first time since the accident a week ago at Valbuena Field when his plane capsized on landing from a picnic trip with his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow.

His physician allowed him to remove the sling which had held his arm in place until the effects of a dislocated shoulder could be overcome.

Popular interest in revolutionary activities has drawn attention away from Lindbergh and his romance. Both Lindbergh and Miss Morrow are enjoying their unaccustomed freedom from publicity. An authoritative source denied reports circulating that invitations to the Lindbergh-Morrow wedding had been transmitted to the United States by secret code. No wedding invitations, it was stated, had been sent and a date for the wedding had not been fixed.

"TABLE of guest" or "table of host"...

You might translate table d'hôte literally either way. The idea is of hospitality: You dine as you would in your own club.

It is exactly this atmosphere of a well-appointed club which the Pennsylvania Railroad tries to get into its dining car service—both à la carte and table d'hôte!

Soft lights—comfortable chairs—crisp, white linen—quiet and efficient service of a variety of tasteful dishes...

As with the extensive à la carte menus, only the choicest of foods go into these $1.50 dinners. Each item is most carefully selected and prepared.

Every Pennsylvania chef—no matter how experienced—is given lessons each week under a master of cookery. And every Pennsylvania waiter is trained every week in the niceties of service.

Schooling makes for Perfection

The more than 2,000 persons who devote their lives to the Pennsylvania's dining car service, are not only schooled, but eager to measure up to the standards of the railroad, as set by the rest of its 176,000 employees.

Konjola does not aim to give mere temporary relief—it works at the very root of the ailments, removing the cause for time to come. If you are suffering, if you believe your case to be hopeless, if all medicines and treatments have failed to benefit you, then call on the Konjola Man, who is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, this city, and have him point out this new road to health. In many cases the warm glow of new health comes surging back before the sufferer hardly knows what is happening. As an example, take the case of Mrs. B. H. Lester, 2234 South Jefferson street, St. Louis, who had a most remarkable experience with Konjola. Mrs. Lester recently said to the Konjola Man:

"Konjola brought me new health after eleven weary, unhappy years. Vainly I had searched for relief—life was miserable, but Konjola quickly conquered my ailments. I tried everything recommended, even to the extent of undergoing three operations—I have spent a fortune seeking health where none could be. My stomach was in such a frightful condition that for five years I lived entirely on fruit juices. One month of solid food threw me into agonies that lasted for hours. My kidneys were very bad, and prevented me from getting much sleep at night. My back and arms were a solid mass of aches and pains and for four years I was unable to comb my hair—raise my arms to my head. "Not once did I stop searching for a medicine that would reach my case. Daily I read the newspapers—read of other people supposedly gaining relief from various troubles—but when I tried the medicine, it had no more effect than water. Then I began reading of Konjola—noticed where local people were being benefited. Although I felt sure it would not benefit me, I decided to take one more chance. That the most joyous surprise in my life was in store for me. At the end of the very first treatment everyone of my ailments were gone. The woes of eleven years vanished like magic. At Christmas I sat down to a regular meal—ate everything I wished and plenty of it, but did not suffer the slightest bit afterward. The aches and pains were gone—I use my arms without a tremor. I actually feel as young as a girl in her teens and once more I have health—that glorious gift of Nature. Nothing that I can ever say will repay the debt I owe Konjola."

Remarkable as it may seem, this is not an unusual case—there are thousands upon thousands of Konjola's credit. If you are ill visit the Konjola Man, without the least obligation. He is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, St. Louis, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

Drink Water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to lose your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the bladder and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Meter for Measuring X-Rays Is Demonstrated

Invention Opens Field for Applying Small Quantities of Electrical Energy to Delicate Cases.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 7.—The newest thing in X-rays, a box meter whereby they can be measured in small doses for medical use, was demonstrated at a meeting of the New York Electrical Society last night.

Dr. F. K. Richtmyer, professor of physics at Cornell University, placed a pair of metal plates a short distance apart, with a strong electrical charge in one plate. Then he projected a beam of X-rays between the plates, and demonstrated that this invisible beam carried electric current from one plate to the other, as readily as if it were solid wire.

This principle makes the new X-rays meter, an instrument named an ionization box. Its value is not only in reducing risk of applying too much X-rays, but also in opening a field for applying small quantities to delicate cases.

Actual motion pictures of the behavior of a human stomach digesting a meal was another of Prof. Richtmyer's demonstrations. This was accomplished with a combination of X-ray and motion picture apparatus.

The story that the X-ray tells the physicist about precious stones was explained. This is in the arrangement of atoms in the stones. Though the atoms are invisible, their patterns are detected by studying the light of X-rays passing through them, or reflected from their surfaces, and these patterns give physicists and geologists interesting information as to how nature made the stone, and possibly as to its value.

Another new field explained was the production of new species of plants and of insects by radiating the seeds and the eggs with X-rays.

found Mr. Edison an inspiration. He is, I believe, the happiest man in the world. With his assistance, I have been working on reducing the number of operations needed in the manufacture of a part for our cars. Sixteen of these are used in each car, or about 140,000 a day, and I am anxious to have them turned out by automatic machinery."

TIDAL WAVE PREDICTED, BUT NONE STRIKES AT HONOLULU. Volcanologist Thought There Would Be One as Result of Earthquake. By the Associated Press. HONOLULU, March 7.—A prediction by Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, volcanologist, was that a tidal wave would strike Honolulu last night as a result of an earthquake some 2200 miles away, failed to materialize.

Dr. Jaggar notified naval authorities here to expect the wave about 10 p. m., but there was no sign of a disturbance.

An earthquake of unusual violence, lasting five hours, was recorded on the seismograph at St. Louis University last night. The Rev. James B. Macelwane, seismologist, fixed the locale of the tremor at about 3500 miles northwest of St. Louis, in the Aleutian Islands, which lie just west of Alaska.

The seismograph recorded the first shock at 7:44:10 p. m. The earthquake reached its greatest intensity at 8:04:07 p. m.

HORSE-RACING BILL PASSED BY HOUSE IN ARKANSAS. Measure for Pari-Mutuel Betting Provides State Tax of 25 Cents on Admissions. By the Associated Press. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 7.

A bill to legalize horse racing and a system of pari-mutuel betting was passed by the House of the Arkansas Legislature yesterday. Favorable action came on reconsideration of the vote by which the bill was defeated last week.

It was the first success for such a measure in three previous attempts in as many Legislatures. Similar bills were defeated in 1927, 1923 and 1922.

The measure, passed by a vote of 41 to 38, provides for a commission of five members. A tax of 25 cents would be levied on admissions to race tracks, the proceeds to go to a State fund for crippled children, the indigent blind and for pensions to persons more than 70 years of age.

The bill after passage was sent to the Senate where it will be called up for action tomorrow. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell Was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indications that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles. Do give it a trial to prove how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours.

NOW OCEAN-FRESH HADDOCK FOR YOUR TABLE

THANKS TO SCIENTIST'S NEW LIQUID AIR PROCESS

Ex-Chief Technologist, U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, perfects new process for retaining natural juices and "just-caught" flavor.

Please do not confuse "Nordic" with any other kind or brand of haddock. There is nothing else like it. The Taylor process of freezing at 40° F. below zero is the exclusive property of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Co. under grant of United States Patent.

AGAIN science has scored—this time by providing a method of frosting genuine fillet of haddock so that it may be served on your table a thousand miles inland weeks after catching—and yet be so fresh and perfect that neither chef, fish-lover, food expert nor chemist can distinguish it from that served at the seashore.

Nordic fillets are so far superior to any other haddock you ever tasted that it is hard to make a suitable comparison. The difference in flavor is about that between choice tenderloin and a tough piece of round steak.

Try just one serving of Nordic haddock. Check carefully every claim made for it in handling, preparing and serving. If you and your whole family do not enthusiastically acclaim Nordic as the finest haddock ever served, call us on the telephone so that we may arrange to refund your money.

ILLINOIS POWER SUES TO EXCLUDE COMPETING FIRM

Seeks to Bar Consolidated Coal Co. Now Supplying Towns More Cheaply Than Plaintiff.

CITY DISTRIBUTING PLANTS PROSPERING

Mining Company Claims Right to Sell Surplus Electricity Without Rating as Public Utility.

Municipal power contracts, entered into by Illinois mining communities near Staunton with a private coal corporation for the use of its surplus power at rates less than the public utility scale, are attacked in an injunction suit in the Circuit Court at Carlinville, brought by the Illinois Power and Light Corporation.

The district affected includes the towns of Staunton, Mount Olive, Livingston, Williamson, Gillespie and White City. It is traversed by the transmission lines of both corporations and has a combined population of 15,000 persons.

The injunction is sought against the Consolidated Coal Co. of St. Louis, which owns three large mines in the Staunton district, and the Consolidated Power Co., a subsidiary, incorporated for the purpose of selling surplus power from the coal company's plant at White City.

Extension of Service Blocked. At present, Mount Olive, White City and Staunton are supplied by the Consolidated company, while Williamson, Livingston and Gillespie are supplied by the Illinois Power Co. An extension of the Consolidated company's power lines to supply Williamson and Livingston was halted by a temporary restraining order, which prevents the Consolidated company from fulfilling its contract with Williamson.

Illinois Power charges in its petition that the Consolidated company is operating without a certificate of convenience and necessity from the Illinois Commerce Commission, is usurping the operating rights of Illinois Power, and asks that the Consolidated company be restrained from engaging in the sale of power to the public other than its employees in the district.

An answer filed Tuesday by Whitnell & Browning of East St. Louis, attorneys for the Consolidated company, contends that the sale of power to municipalities is not public utility business, since the municipalities own their own distributing systems, are buying their power wholesale on a private contract basis, and doing the actual distributing to the public.

The distribution systems in Staunton and Mount Olive were retained when municipally owned generating plants became useless four years ago. The answer states that Illinois Power offered to buy these plants but refused to sell them at wholesale rates.

Thereupon Staunton and Mount Olive contracted with the Consolidated Co. for a supply of power.

Surplus Replaces Town Deficit. When the contract was entered into with Staunton, the light fund of the city had a $20,000 deficit. The consumer rate was 14 cents a kilowatt hour, the same as the Illinois Power charged in adjoining communities. Consolidated Power contracted to furnish the city wholesale at 2 1/2 cents a kilowatt hour the answer states, and since then Staunton has reduced the consumer charge to 10 cents for the first 30 kilowatt hours graduated to 3 cents for 300 or more kilowatt hours.

In addition, there was no charge for city street lighting. The deficit has been paid and replaced by a surplus of $15,000 and the distribution system has been reconstructed, the answer asserts.

Mount Olive and White City have had similar results, reducing the consumer rate from 14 to 10 cents and showing a profit. The injunction suit was filed after Williamson, which was buying power from the Illinois Power at average rates of 7 cents a kilowatt hour wholesale, entered into a contract with Consolidated Power at 3 cents a kilowatt hour.

Schedule of rates partly incorporated in the defendant's answer and partly furnished by counsel for Consolidated Power, show the financial experiences of the remaining towns with their power problem.

"Moonlight Schedule." In Livingston, the Illinois Power bought the distribution system. The residents paid 14 cents a kilowatt hour for the first 20, graduated to 8 cents for 200 or more kilowatt hours. Livingston street lights are on a "moonlight schedule" at a cost of $2500 annually and the town is $4000 in debt to Illinois Power.

The Livingston rate is 4 cents a kilowatt hour lower to the minimum user and 5 cents higher to the maximum user than the Staunton rate, where the coal company supplies the power.

Lighting bill is $4200 and recently Illinois Power took a $10,000 judgment against the city for unpaid light bills.

ATLANTA BARS, THEN PERMITS GOLFING IN PARKS ON SUNDAY

Board Evades Blue Laws by Suspending Collection of Fees to Play.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 7.—Atlanta residents are to have free use of the municipal golf courses, tennis courts and other amusement facilities of the city parks on Sunday.

The park board has rescinded its order closing the parks on Sunday because of a ruling by the City Attorney that collection of amusement fees on the Sabbath was illegal under city and state blue laws.

The board decided to keep the golf courses and other amusement facilities open without collecting a fee for their use, rather than deprive the users of their sport.

MR. GEORGE KUEHL.

who resides at 6055 Schulte Ave., to the Weldon representative at Walgreen's drug store, 514 Washington Ave. "It has done me a world of good," he continued. "I have had rheumatism for four years, and the pain was almost unbearable. My knees, ankles, arms and shoulders were sore and stiff, and the pain would often make me cry out. For two days and nights I was in such agony that I never closed my eyes. I could hardly walk and finally had to give up my work. Only a man who has suffered with rheumatism in the most severe form can appreciate what I have gone through.

"On December the fifth I started to take Weldon tablets through the recommendation of others who had been cured, and on December ninth I went back to work, not well but so much better that I could get about with some degree of comfort. The pain has left me. I sleep fine, can go up or down stairs without pain and feel like a new man. I want to tell other sufferers what Weldon tablets have done for me, and if they doubt my statement just let me talk to them. Anyone may telephone Evergreen 4714, write or call on me.

DIVORCES SECOND WIFE AT 68, DUBIOUS ABOUT TAKING THIRD

William Schmitt Says He'd 'Have to Think It Over' When Judge Asks About Remarriage.

William Schmitt, 68 years old, of 4920 Blow street, divorced his second wife today on the grounds of general indignities. He could not remember his wife's age or when they were married, but said he thought they had lived together at intervals during six years.
"The trouble," he told Judge Taylor, "was her brother. He thought he knew everything and Louis took his side in every argument. Once I thought I was for a fence and he said it was good for nothing but kindling. I said,
'What do you know about it?' and he said, 'I know all about it.' She said he was right."

"Do you think you'll ever get married again?" Judge Taylor asked.

"I'm not sure," Schmitt replied.
"I'd have to think it over." He is a car repairer for the Terminal Railroad. Mrs. Schmitt did not appear.

BOY SAYS HE WAS KIDNAPED Fornfelt, Mo., Officers Begin Investigation of Story.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., March 7.—Merritt Russell, 12, who said he was kidnaped from his home in Logansport, Ind., Tuesday by a strange man, was being held at Fornfelt, near here, today, while officers investigated his story. The boy said he escaped from his abductors by leaping from a freight train at Fornfelt last night.
Russell, who said he lived on Beal street, in Logansport, and was a pupil in the Washington School, told officers that his nephew, Richard Grace, 13, also was kidnaped by the stranger. He said they were forced to enter a railway freight car with the stranger while they were at play in the railroad yards. He said his mother resides in Logansport, but that his father is at Hot Springs, Ark.

SMITH, JOPLIN GOLFER, GAINS VICTORY IN FORT MYERS OPEN EVENT CARDS D

MISSOURI STAR SCORES 67S IN LAST 2 ROUNDS OF TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.
FORT MYERS, Fla., March 7.—Missouri's young malleable swinger, Horton Smith, of Joplin, was on his way to Miami today in quest of more tournament gold after winning the first annual Fort Myers open here yesterday.

Smith is entered in the $15,000 Lagorce open at Miami next week. The son of the Ozarks, whose twenty-first birthday is two months away, defeated Densmore Shute, Columbus, O., professional, one up on the eleventh green yesterday in a play-off after they had tied 231 each at the end of the 72-hole route.

Smith set a new course record in the final rounds with two 67's each five strokes below par. Gene Sarazen with a 253 finished third followed by Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, N. J., Willie McFarlane, Oakridge, N. Y., former National open champion, and two score other veteran stars.

Gets $600 for Victory.
Smith received $600 for winning the tourney. Shute won $400 and Sarazen $300. The balance of the $2000 prize money was distributed to the runners up.

In the play off Smith and Shute halved ten straight holes, coming to the eleventh, both got long drives on the par five hole. Shute was just short of the green on his second and took three more to get down, while Smith's second landed on the green and he scored a birdie in two putts for a win.

The results:
Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., 71-67-67-281.

Miami Contract Gets O. K. From Garden Officials

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 7.—The question of who will succeed Ted Rickard as head of the Madison Square Garden Corporation will remain a matter of conjecture for at least two more weeks.

A meeting of the Garden's Executive Committee yesterday failed to consider the matter of a new president and no decision will be reached before the next meeting of the board of directors, March 19.

The question of the connection, if any, between Jack Dempsey and the Garden Corporation also was laid aside by the committee. Dempsey is believed to be tied up with Floyd Fitzsimmons, Detroit promoter, and will not be available unless there is trouble with the boxing and racing bills now pending in the Michigan Legislature.

William F. Carey, vice president of the corporation, at present holds the guiding hand in the affairs of the Garden.

The agreement which Carey negotiated with the City of Miami for holding five winter fights there in the next five years was approved by the Executive Committee without argument, but nothing was done about his official post or his future relations with the corporation.

The expected discussion of plans for a heavyweight elimination series extending through the summer and deciding the chances of Jimmy Malone, Pauline Uscudun and Max Schmelling did not materialize.

HUNTER AND HENNESSEY IN QUARTERFINALS OF FLORIDA NET TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.
PALM BEACH, Fla., March 7.—Ranking players of the tennis world blazed through the quarter finals here yesterday in the annual Florida men's tennis championships. Francis T. Hunter and John Hennessey leading the way.

Hunter, second ranking star, won from Fritz Mercut, 6-1, 6-4, while Hennessey was taking the measure of G. Carlton Shaffer, Philadelphia, 7-5, 10-5.

Setting a new record locally for prolonged sets, Wilmer Allison, former University of Texas star, won from John A. Millen, Forest Hills, L. I., 6-4, 14-12.

In the other quarter-finals singles match John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., defeated W. H. Storey, Freeport, L. I., 6-3, 6-5.

Giants Gain 23 to 3 Victory Over Texas U. Nine—Malone, Cub Right Hand, Is Ready for Season's Opening—Heydler Visits Phillies.

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 7.—New York's Giants have had a sample of how their rival Yankees must feel during their home run spree and they intend to try it out a few more times. The Giants journeyed to Austin yesterday for a game with Texas University, just to get the jump on the other teams in the spring barnstorming, and they came back with three homers and a 23 to 3 victory over the collegeans.

Ed Happers, Yankees.
By the Associated Press.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 7.—Miller Huggins believes the Yankees are not progressing as they should.

"We ought to be farther advanced," he said. "This cold has made it impossible for the pitchers to do any really hard throwing. It means that the rest of the week we will have to crowd seven days work into three. That means danger to arms and legs."

Malone at Top Form.
By the Associated Press.
AVAILON, Catalina Island, Cal., March 7.—Percy "Pat" Malone, burly speed ball artist, appears fit and ready for the Cubs' National League pennant drive. Malone was the hurling ace for the "Catalinas" again yesterday as they defeated the "Avalons," 7 to 3, to win the camp baseball championship. His speed was dazzling and his control had a mid-season aspect.

Rogers Hornsby, Clyde Beck and Earl Grace, rookie catcher, did most of the hitting for the "Catalinas," while Kiki Cuyler wielded a heavy bat for the "Avalons," who have lost two out of the three games.

The Cubs open a series with Los Angeles tomorrow.

Heydler Visits Phillies.
By the Associated Press.
WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 7.—A dozen early-bird Phillies, most of them battersmen, began their first full week in camp today with a double drill on the program. The entire squad, Manager Shotton said, is expected by tomorrow or Saturday, and more advanced practice will then be the order.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, was a visitor yesterday, motoring down from New York to Mr. Heydler. The Phillies are the first team he has seen in camp this year. He made no predictions concerning the league race, but said the Phils "looked attractive."

Collegian Looks Good.
By the Associated Press.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 7.—Herman Holshouser, a big North Carolina mountain school teacher, has shown the Braves management here that he can pitch a fast ball with a hook.

He was on the mound for the regulars during two innings of yesterday's game between the Braves and the Gowsdy second string outfit and during that time he held the Yannisians hitless and runless. He appears likely to stick with team this season instead of being sent out on option as he was last year.

ANNUAL A. A. U. BOXING TOURNEY HERE TONIGHT

The event for which amateur boxers have pointed themselves during a long training campaign will take place tonight, when more than 50 boxers will compete in the annual Western A. A. U. senior boxing tournament at the Coliseum. The program is scheduled to open at 7 o'clock and will continue until completed, probably after midnight.

Many Out-of-Town Entries.
Out-of-town entries, which means new faces for local fans to look upon, are unusually heavy in this year's tournament. Seventeen Oklahoma and Kansas fighters will compete, as will a team of nine boxers representing the Kansas City A. C. of Kansas City.

Six Illinois boys, representing the East St. Louis Knights of Columbus, are listed among the entries. One local organization, the South Broadway A. C., which annually has furnished a formidable list of entries, will enter only two fighters this year, in Bobby Allen, flyweight, and Carl Schaeffer, featherweight.

An altercation several months ago between South Broadway A. C. officials and the Western A. A. U. is responsible for the lack of heavier representation from the South Side club.

Eight new champions will emerge from the tournament. Five of last year's champions automatically forfeited their titles during the past 12 months by entering the professional field. They are Joe Ghinoul, bantam; Jack Gracwick, lightweight; Al Sullivan, middleweight; Glen Moore, light-heavy; and Dave Knost, heavy. Three of last year's leaders, Cliff Doetsel, flyweight; Freddy West, featherweight; and Mickey Adams, welter, failed to enter.

Flori A. C. Enters 11 Boys.
The Flori Olympian A. C. has entered the largest team, with 11 boxers carrying the colors of that organization. They will have a strong representation in the Gilbert Terry, flyweight; Dan Duro, Edgar Terry, Jack Wilson, Joe Herbert, Jack and William Trout, featherweights; Herbert Kramse, welter; John Schanke and Carl Holst, heavyweights.

Harry Sharpe and Jack Hughes will referee, with two sets of officials, Ted Johnson and Bill Joern, and Judge Robert W. Hall and George W. Judging the bout, Hall and Taylor will judge the fights.

Contestants will report at the Coliseum this afternoon at 3 o'clock for medical examinations.

After reading the reports from the various training camps we have no hesitancy in predicting that the 14 major league clubs that don't win the pennant this year will be there or thereabouts.

OLD GRIMES is dead and laid away. Of him no more is heard. But Eddie Grimes is bound to play.

On Howley's team at third. And with Burtleigh Grimes warming up in midseason form with the Pirates it looks like a big year for the Grimeses.

Glenn Collett and Miss Van Wic Advance in Florida Tourney

By the Associated Press.
ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 7.—Miss Glenn Collett, National women's golf champion, showed the way to a strong field yesterday in the Florida East Coast Championships. She shot the best individual round to date, 69, to defeat Mrs. Dorothy Bentham, Great Neck, L. I., 8 and 7, in the first match play.

Miss Virginia Van Wic, though having trouble with her iron, was able to eliminate Mrs. E. C. Stone, Boston, 6 and 5, while Miss Bernice Wall, Wisconsin State champion, vanquished Mrs. J. L. Anderson, Quincy Valley, N. Y., 4 and 3.

Goldfom's newest star, Miss Helen Hicks, merely joined the rivalry to go into the second round as her opponent, Miss Madge Miller, Detroit, defaulted.

Mrs. Stuart Hanley, Detroit, eliminated Mrs. C. W. Blackwell, Chicago, 7 and 5; Mrs. Elvin Jones, Chicago, defeated Miss Lillian Holland, New York 3 and 2; Miss Pinkie Wiley, Boston, eliminated Miss Edith Hopwood, Uniontown, Pa., 6 and 5; and Miss Sally Stewart, Kansas City, beat Mrs. G. F. Burnett, Chicago, 7 and 6.

WRAY'S COLUMN

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 7.
TY COBB, retired according to announcement made during the winter, is expected to report to the Browns' camp soon, although not in the capacity of journeyman ball player. Ty will come as the friend of Dan Howley, to do a little training on his own hook and perhaps slip a little advice on the gentle art of busting the apple to some of Daniel's more or less novice players.

Howley does not know the date on which Ty will arrive, but says that, in a recent letter, Cobb reiterated his desire to lumber up with the Howley men.

Too bad Ty decided to quit the game. He had within his grasp another signal honor to add to the long list he already owns—that of being the only player to serve 25 years in the major leagues.

Cobb is not "through." He batted .330 last year and fielded .361. Not so bad. There were worse records in both leagues. He is a man still in his prime, although slowing down and losing the power of his arm. But his hitting could easily carry him two or three years more. He could clinch the silver anniversary of his career without difficulty, if he would.

Old Pop Anson was still a regular at 45 and was still hitting above .300. At the age of 45, Pop batted .325 for the season. Why not Cobb?

It is improbable, however, that Ty will change his mind. Sated with the baseball honors, and wealthy enough to have no fear for the future, Cobb has probably laid down the bat for good professionally.

It's a Happy Family.
Dan Howley's happy family is once more assembled and ready to go. Probably in neither major league is there another group of baseball players with just the same attitude toward the management. Howley's clan is just a happy family with Daniel as the head.

"I have the best bunch of men that ever worked for a manager," Howley commented. "There isn't a crab in the outfit, there isn't a shirk that I have found out and there isn't one member of the squad who would not willingly do everything to help out a teammate. The trouble is the men are too eager and they are apt to overwork."

"These fellows work every step of the way all the time. They don't know what quit means. And it isn't necessary to be hard boiled."

"They make mistakes and I stop them right on the spot and point out the error, then. That's the time to dent in their noodles. There's Kress. That fellow is like a bound on the scent. He's seeking knowledge. Everything you tell him he remembers and tries to use. He never quits trying to improve, that's how he became one of the leading shortstops in the game, although just two years removed from a semi-pro team."

"My boys' spirit will take them a long way. If they are properly conditioned, they'll run hard all the time, through five consecutive months, will burn out."

Roosevelt, 18; Normandy, 12.

McBride, 16; St. Charles, 12.

C. B. C., 26; Beaumont, 21.

By Harold Tuthill

That the margin of victory in a basketball game is determined by the foul throws was ably demonstrated last night on the St. Louis University floor when Christian Brothers College scored on each of 12 foul chances to overcome Beaumont, 26 to 21, in the second round of the St. Louis district basketball tournament.

The favorites advanced in the other contests as Webster eliminated Kirkwood, 16 to 11; Maplewood set back Principia, 15 to 7; Wellston downed Central, 13 to 9; Roosevelt defeated Normandy, 18 to 12; and McBride turned back St. Charles, 16 to 12.

Beaumont out-scored C. B. C. from the floor, 10 baskets to 7, but the Brothers were incomparable at the free throw line. Johnny Corcoran counted seven straight free throws, which with his four field goals, enabled him to carry off high scoring honors for the second day of play.

After the first period which ended at 6-o-0, C. B. C. steadily pressed ahead until it led at the half, 16 to 6, and at the end of the third quarter, 20 to 11. Field goals by Holtman, Barnhouse and Weidner brought Beaumont on the short end of a 22 to 19 count in the last period, but Corcoran's field goal and free throw clinched the game for the Brothers.

Normandy Surprises Fans.

Normally astonished most of the 1000 spectators by holding the highly rated Roosevelt quintet even at the end of the third quarter, 12-11. However, Charlie Bailey of Roosevelt pulled the game out of the fire when he scored a field goal at the end of the first quarter, 3-0, and at the half and 3-0 at the end of the third period. In the final quarter McBride was assured of victory on Gorman's and Durbin's goals from the field and Stephens' free throw. St. Charles got its points on Feldman's field goal and Burke's charity shot. Durbin sank a field goal at the close of the game to remove any doubt of the outcome.

Wellston, in its first day of play managed to pull through by holding Central to three points in the second half, enabling the county five to win, 13 to 9. Wellston did

Three Soldan Players Are Given Places on All-Star High School Basket Quint

All-Star High School Teams

First Team	Position	Second Team
Bailey, Roosevelt	Forward	Gelber, Soldan
Levy, Soldan	Forward	Weidner, Beaumont
Hellmich, Soldan	Center	Cook, Soldan
Holtman, Beaumont	Guard	Frazier, Roosevelt
Joyce, Soldan	Guard	Schwandt, Beaumont

Honorable mention: Bassman, Central; forward; Schwandt, Beaumont; guard; Ketterer, Cleveland; forward.

By Harold Tuthill

Three players from Soldan and one each from Roosevelt and Beaumont comprise the "All-Star" team of the City High School Basketball League, selected for the Post-Dispatch by officials of the circuit. Soldan and Roosevelt each had two and Beaumont one on the second five. Neither Central nor Cleveland was awarded a place on either team.

Four of the players on the first team were unanimous choices, while the fifth was named after careful selection. The difference in playing ability between the first and second squads is slight.

There was little difficulty in picking the forward line as Bailey of Roosevelt, Levy and Hellmich of Soldan were outstanding. Although Bailey depended upon himself to supply most of Roosevelt's scoring punch throughout the year, he was the most reliable cog in the Rough Riders' machine. He led the scorers for the year, gathering 22 field goals and 26 foul throws for a total of 50 points.

Hellmich Placed at Center.

Lester Levy of Soldan gained the other forward position. There was no difference in the scoring ability between Levy and his teammates, Gelber, but Levy was the better defensive player.

No one performed his duties more capably than Hudson Hellmich, the tallest center in the league. Hellmich showed such defensive power that he was assured a place long before the season ended. That Hellmich filled in at the proper moment is evidenced by the fact that Soldan lost but one game all season.

The steady performances of Arthur "Moose" Holtman, guard, qualified him as Beaumont's candidate. Holtman's worth is manifest when it is explained that the team did not exhibit enough punch to carry beyond the quarterfinals.

Maplewood Wins Easily.

Webster won its game with Kirkwood, 16 to 11, because Kirkwood insisted on fouling Webster and contrived to have 17 fouls called on it, eight of which Webster counted.

Maplewood did not have much trouble in disposing of Principia and will be primed to meet Webster in the initial game tonight. Soldan is expected to win from University City this afternoon and advance to the semifinals.

Roosevelt should win from Wellston and advance in the lower bracket, but the result of the McBride-C. B. C. battle cannot be forecast since each has won from the other in Preparatory League games.

McBride Enters Tourney.

McBride was notified last night that its petition to participate in the National Catholic High School basketball tournament in Chicago March 20 to 24 had been accepted.

BARTHOLOMEW TELLS OF RIVER FRONT PLANS

Start on Program Should Be Made at Once, Says Commission Engineer.

A more detailed description of the various projects that will be included in the extensive Mississippi River front development was given by Harland Bartholomew, engineer for the City Plan Commission, in an address before the Downtown Lions' Club at the American Annex Hotel yesterday. After discussing the street-widening program which the Commission agreed upon before attacking the river front problem, and which includes the widening of Market street, Bartholomew said: "The Commission arrived at four general conclusions as to what was the trouble with the river front: first, the city's growth westward; second, the decline in traffic on the river; third, the inaccessibility of the area east of Fourth street; fourth, the obsolescence of the buildings in that area."

"All these have contributed to a decrease in property values in the district east of Fourth street, and this, together with the need to beautify the river front, are the reasons for developing the plan we have outlined."

Says Drastic Step Is Needed.

"Advocates of the Fourth and Chestnut site for the new Federal building think that placing it there will revive values in the whole section. No single act can revive a whole section. Even the widening of Third street would not be sufficient. Something drastic must be done to increase economic values as well as approve appearances."

As has been told, the river front plan includes construction of high-speed, nonstop automobile connections from the northern and southern sections of the city to the proposed double-deck Third street thoroughfare. Discussing such connections, Bartholomew declared the plan calls for a prolongation of Gravois avenue on the south to Eighteenth street and Russell avenue, and widening of Natural Bridge avenue, on the north, to the city limits. This would make possible an elliptical traffic artery that would materially lessen the time consumed in traveling from outlying sections on the north and south to the eastern edge of the downtown district, he said.

"If the rapid transit system is made effective, the parkway proposed between Third street and the river and from Spruce street to Franklin avenue, could be used as the terminal for a suburban railroad passenger service," he continued.

May Include Air Facilities.

"It might even be found exceedingly useful to build a landing field for freight and passenger airplanes and construct air traffic terminals, if the use of airplanes continues to increase."

"Missouri does not have the power of excess condemnation, known also as the power of eminent domain, such as 15 or 16 other states have. If we had that power, the cost of the river front development could be levied among private property owners in the river front area, in addition to being assessed against the entire city. With such power, he added, the city could impose restrictions on river front building and thereby have a hand in molding the new buildings that would replace the present structures. Bartholomew pointed out that property values along Michigan avenue in Chicago had increased $100,000,000 since the municipal double-deck project was built along that thoroughfare. "I can foresee the same sort of improvement along Third street," he went on. "We can proceed under our present laws and there is no reason why we shouldn't get started. Probably no greater improvement now confronts the city today. The blight of obsolescence that now exists east of Fourth street might well extend even to Sixth or Seventh street.

"Bond issues should be prepared. It will take time to acquire the necessary property. The cost can be spread out over a period of 20 or 30 years so that it won't be excessive."

Cost of the central river front development has been estimated at $41,000,000, with subsequent construction amounting to $1,000,000.

A Detroit Woman Who Does Things

By Marguerite Martyn.

MARGE visitor proved to be a surprise exhibit at the Detroit Women's National Exposition being held at the Jefferson Hotel this week. She was Mrs. Carl B. Chamberlin of Detroit who had come on behalf of the Detroit Federation of Women's Clubs of which she is president and the Chamber of Commerce to see the show with a view to having its promoters put on a similar one in her city. But among many unique features exhibited at the Exposition it was discovered none was more distinctive than this visitor under the lapel of whose smart blouse gleamed a gold police badge with which goes the authority to arrest any person, anywhere in the United States, of whatever degree, who deserves to be arrested. Mrs. Chamberlin is president of the commission of the Detroit House of Correction, or city prison, a title conferred upon her by Mayor John Lodge, Lindbergh's uncle.

But this is not perhaps her greatest distinction. It is because of her leadership in many branches of civic and cultural uplift that she was considered the logical person for this job.

She is president of the city Federation of Women's Clubs which have a membership of 20,000 distributed among 127 organizations, honorary chairman of the Detroit Symphony Society, one of the founders of the new Colony Club, holder of several other titles; in short, a force in that progressive spirit that has caused Detroit to climb over several rivals to fourth place in the ranks of cities.

In contrast to conservative achievements of women's clubs in St. Louis, Mrs. Chamberlin tells of the flourishing condition of women's clubs in Detroit are inspiring.

Of the huge building housing Federation headquarters, which never is large enough to take care of enthusiastic throngs of women clamoring for admittance, and of a Women's City Club with a membership limited to 6000 which always has a waiting list of many thousands where its corresponding club here, the Town Club, struggles for existence.

Similarly, the new Detroit prisons are models for other cities. They are constructed on the cottage plan, each unit caring for only 25 inmates, segregated according to personal character rather than the character of their crimes. Men's and women's prisons are widely separated and located some 25 miles out in the country. Only women wardens are placed in charge of the women's prison. Farms and other industries are maintained so that as a whole the prisons are self-supporting. Schools are maintained. Occupational therapy and other modern systems of rehabilitating criminals are in force. Each prison has its hospital and special attention is paid to reclamation through medical treatment and psycho-analysis. Not a bar is visible in the prisons, nor a screen, other ingenious arrangements preventing escapes or contact with the outside.

Typical of her versatility and range of interests Mrs. Chamberlin turned from details gathered upon the sordid side of life to the plan by which her Symphony society has popularized its matinee concert.

"We are particular to keep the fashionable aspect out of them," she said. "Five hundred women are solicited for memberships at only $1 a year. They are encouraged to drop in just as they are, on their way home from marketing or business, and enjoy in the most informal atmosphere the relaxation and inspiration afforded by good music. Further interest is stimulated by teas with opportunities to meet the performers."

Painting the Floor

If you have decided to paint the kitchen floor, here is how you should do it. For a real successful job you should apply three coats of paint. First of all make sure the floor is absolutely clean, dry and free from dust. Then apply the first coat, which should consist of white lead in linseed oil, with a little drier.

If you are a amateur painter it is better to buy your paint ready mixed. In fact, for just one or two floors, you will find the ready mixed more economical as well as convenient.

Brush each coat of paint thoroughly into the wood, lengthwise of the grain, and make sure each coat is perfectly dry before applying the next coat.

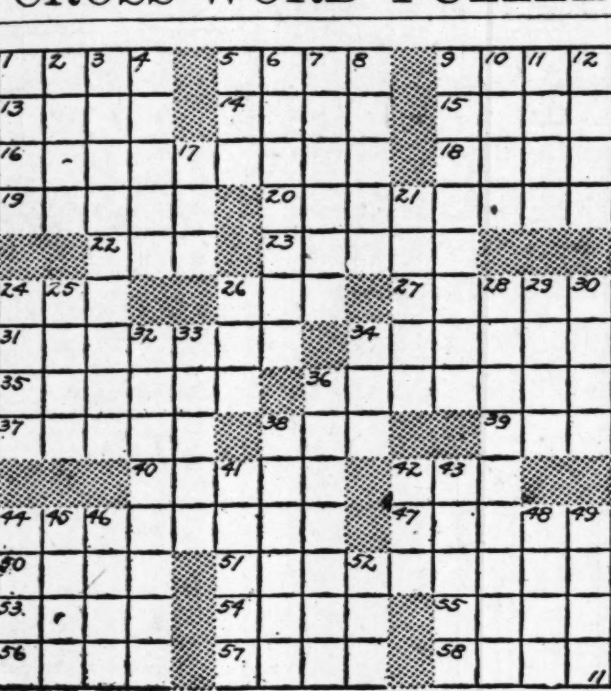

The second coat should be of the color you have chosen for your floor. If you mix the paint yourself use equal parts of white lead and zinc white in oil, drier, turpentine and whatever coloring you desire. The third coat should be the same as the second, omitting the turpentine and substituting a good floor varnish—use from one to four parts of varnish to a gallon of paint.

The paint will wear longer and your floor will have a soft, lustrous finish if you give it an additional coat of equal parts of turpentine and linseed oil. After the paint is thoroughly dry rub this on with a soft cloth and polish with a woolen cloth.

Sweaters Are Lacy

Here, there and everywhere that spring ensembles are displayed in entrancing array it becomes apparent that sweaters of the most inimitable chic are of lacy knit. Separate sweaters and jersey frocks with sheer tops are shown of lacy knit.

Simple Science for Everybody

By Colin G. Welles, Ph. D.

THE CURE OF SEASICKNESS.

There is one kind of sickness at which everybody laughs, until he himself is sick with it. It is sea-sickness.

For years people have tried all kinds of cures in the hope that they may cross the sea without this wretched illness which, for many persons, robs ocean voyages of all their pleasures.

A certain drug manufacturing company has made a fortune out of "sea-sick pills," which have never been known to cure or prevent the ailment, and all the remedies from starvation to stuffing people's stomachs turn as topsy turvy as the angry sea, and there has never been anything better to do than to grin and bear it. Until very recently.

Recently, a scientist traveling to America from Europe on one of the palatial ocean liners, offered to cure his miserable fellow passengers of seasickness, if they would submit to an experiment. To one group he gave five grains of a certain salt called sodium nitrite at intervals of two hours. To the other group he did nothing. In a very short while every person to whom he had given the drug recovered, while every member of the group which had not taken the medicine was still sick.

The explanation the scientist gave of the powers of his chemical was just this:

Seasickness, he said, is caused by an overworking, when the boat rocks, of the little balance nerve in the inner ear. Sodium nitrite calms the balance nerve, exactly as other drugs calm other nerves.

Of course, the experiment on the ocean liner a few months ago does not finally prove to a scientist's mind that the cause and cure of seasickness has been found. Further experiments will have to be made.

Beauty Shop

By Frances Olivier

SMART FINGERNAILS

SHADOW your eyes with purple for evening—if it suits you—and tint your skin a dusky Bermuda tan for the day—if you care. But as to finger nails, take our motherly advice and stick to the pale pink and white scheme—because it is always good taste!

Fingernail beauty begins, of course, with immaculate cleanliness. It ends with a delicate shell pink gleam. And between those two extreme stages of nail culture must be a cushiony, well-nigh invisible cuticle framing an oval of fingernail which conforms to the shape of the fingers themselves.

The cleanliness which is the basis of nail beauty is not achieved by digging under the nails with pins or the end of a steel file, or even an orangewood stick if it can possibly be avoided. No, a plenty of warm water and soap and the right sort of nail brush is the "secret."

Next to discoloration, cuticle imperfections seem to be the most popular complaint of those who can't do a thing for their nails. And all too often the trouble is directly traceable to the popular habit of cutting the cuticle or treating it with quick-action solvents.

That so-important frame of the fingernails, the cuticle, demands training rather than anything else, though a periodic clipping by an expert may be necessary—at first. By training we mean the nightly application of cream or a special cuticle oil or salve accompanied by a gentle pushing back. One woman of our acquaintance never fails to smooth back the cuticle when she arises her hands. And her finger ends are a veritable joy to look upon.

Nor has this possessor of the perfect nails come by them naturally. There are people, you know, whose nails are just naturally well shaped and rather beautifully framed. The rest of us have to work for our half moons and study and strive for a flatteringly shaped fingernail.

The Beauty Shop has all it takes to give you all for receding the cultivation of a somewhat long oval, when shaping the nails, since this tends to make the fingers themselves appear longer and more tapering than they are in reality.

But the Beauty Shop has all it can do to keep from winning at the sight of American Beauty nails on even the most exquisite of ladies. They always suggest the memory, also, of a certain Arab, in which occurs the line, "All the perfumes of Arabia will not sweeten this little hand." Don't you agree?

THE GARDEN IN SPRINGTIME

(National Garden Bureau)

PLANNED GARDENS BEST GARDENS.

A GARDEN planned in advance is much more likely to be a success than one put in haphazardly and without any thoughtful arrangement. It is true that comparatively few gardeners put their plans on paper before they plant their vegetable beds, but their gardening operations suffer in efficiency because of this neglect.

The reason for planning a vegetable garden is economy of space and to get the most from the soil that it can produce. It requires careful figuring to determine just how crops shall follow each other and accompany each other to the best advantage. This is not a difficult matter if one has at hand a set of the dates crop mature after planting. It can then be determined what crop is to go in where another which has given its yield comes out.

Once a plan has been drawn up and has worked out successfully, the work of the annual garden planning is much simplified. The plan may be reversed each year so that crops will not occupy the same soil in two successive years.

Draw plans to scale with the rows running north and south preferably, for the best distribution of sun. Follow the distances apart for the rows laid down in the seed catalogues or on the seed packets. These have all been worked out by expert gardeners and are the distances at which the vegetables will have the space to do their best.

In planning succession crops, do not follow a root crop with a root crop or peas and beans with peas and beans. Let a root crop follow the early peas, spinach and lettuce, and a crop whose leaves or seed pods or fruit are eaten follow the radishes, early beets and carrots.

Some of the slower growing late crop vegetables may be planted among the early vegetables, such as tomato plants, the row of dwarf peas and when the pea vines are pulled the tomatoes will have the space to themselves. Draw a plan carefully and follow it and the result will be a better garden. There will be no time wasted in figuring out where things are to be planted after the soil is dug and ready.

Fruit Cake Help

When cutting fruit cake, use a very sharp knife to obtain thin, evenly cut pieces. Due to the fruits and nuts, the slices will be ragged and some may break apart unless the knife is sharp.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

When Day Is Done

WHEN day is done so many hopes pass with the setting of the sun; they fade, as light from mountain slopes, when day is done. When day is done so many plans are ended with the sunset glow; we see joy's freighted caravans down darkness go. We lose the courage that, with dawn, wells up through all our veins anew. Our fortitude when light is gone grows dimmer, too. But, strangely, with the evening star comes peace to the smiles of twilight are faith knows no wane. And though day's tasks were incomplete, few finished which we had begun, still all the plans and toil seem sweet when day is done. For men their eager strife resign, forgetting worldly honors won, and all life's phases grow more fine when day is done.

A discarded shaving brush is excellent to dust the phonograph records. Keep one handy with the records.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN. "Step to the Music."

DICK was going deep into the mountains to inspect a semi-precious stone claim in which Sam Lanier had interested him. If the claim lived up to the boasts Sam made about it, Dick proposed to finance its purchase and development. Sam and Dick were to drive as far toward the chain as they could, then hike the rest of the way through the high passes across the backbone of the range. They stopped in front of the Hodges for a good-by to Felicia. She and Dick shook hands gravely. Wise applicants for divorce do not like publicly in Reno. "Oh, Dick," her eyes dwelt on his face.

Only three days, he promised—four at the most—yet at the moment it seemed unendurable. Ann was out, and Felicia went upstairs in search of her son. But he, too, was off somewhere, playing exciting games or listening eagerly to the thrilling tales of the Desert Rat.

As she sat, disinterestedly turning the pages of a magazine in the living room, she thought of the hundreds of other women who came to this city in search of divorce. Women, unlike herself, who were without friends, without protection. Small wonder that they acted as they did, she thought. She recalled a sound she had heard that afternoon, through some open window of apartment or hotel—the dry sobbing of a woman.

The solitude was getting on her nerves; she rose irritably, seized her hat and got out her car—the car she had used so little, since Dick had had. Out the Mount Rose road, winding through the flat desert, where sagebrush, pungent to her nostrils, seemed to move in the breeze like lazy sheep, abruptly she came upon a flock of red sheep, great thousands of them, and for more than an hour she drove through the miles of beating heads before she turned back.

A quiet evening at home—Peg was out with friends from the university Ann yawned; then Dr. Tom. "Please don't sit up with me," Felicia begged them. "I think I'll read for a while."

She must have fallen asleep over her book; she awakened with a start and looked up to see Peg peering at her from the threshold, a self-conscious little grin on her brown young face.

"Hello!" Felicia greeted her, and glanced across the room at the clock.

Half past three! She had slept. "How a girl!" Peg inquired. Felicia stared at her. "Peg, how do you've been drinking?" she accused.

Peg giggled. "What if I have?" "Oh, Peggy!" Felicia looked at her helplessly. "What would your mother say?"

"Probably plenty," The alliteration amused her. "P-probably plenty!" she repeated. Then her smile faded. "I don't see where you get off, though, criticism!"

"What do you mean, Peg?" Peg shrugged, ranked the scarlet tam from her bobbed head and tossed it across the room. "Well—you're about to become a divorcee, aren't you?"

She leaned over and kissed little Alex, as he slept, but her thoughts were not of him. As she flung open her window, the distant mountains rose, starkly silhouetted against the night sky. Dick Stuyvesant was beyond those mountains—but at that moment Felicia was not even thinking of Dick.

She looked out at the stars and laughed softly to herself. She had never had youth, never had gaiety. From a serious childhood she had stepped into the even more serious role of being Mrs. Alexander Brett!

But this was Reno, this town over which the stars hung so low and so bright! Reno, and she was here for her freedom! She might "step out" just a little. She would with Peg.

She was ready, exquisitely dressed in a yellow linen frock that looked like nothing at all at first glance, but had an air that only Paris can give, when Peg came home from the university the next day. Drawn up to the curb, where Dick's roadster had so often parked, was a red roadster, a boy at the wheel and a boy in the rumble seat.

"We're on our way!" Peg announced, gaily. "Thought we'd go out to Galena Creek and see if it's still there!"

Felicia was pulling a little violet hat down over her fair hair; its deep color made her blue eyes shaded, mysterious.

"Is that hat a wow? Baby?" Billy Blair, in the rumble seat, eyed Felicia admiringly. "Gonna sit back here with an old man?" Felicia smiled at him. "I'll risk it," she said.

They sped through the town, out over the highway. Billy Blair was not one to waste time. He put a firm arm about Felicia and drew her closer to him. "How 'bout the least little touch of liquid refreshment?" he suggested.

Felicia, not knowing exactly what else to do, smiled again, and Billy pulled from his pocket a shiny flask, which he offered to her with mock-gallant gesture. She took it in her hand and looked at it thoughtfully for a moment. "What is it?" she asked.

"Rye," he said. "That was whisky, Felicia. Know? But what it tasted like!" She hesitated. "This was wrong," he winked. "Oh, well..." She raised the flask.

"Hey!" Billy Blair's voice was anguished. "Hey, sweetness—leave some for Poppy!"
